CLIMBING PLANE PLUNGED INTO BAY

MRS. CHAPLIN MOTHER OF TWO ACTORS, DIES

Woman Who Herself Was Actress in Britain Succumbs in California

Famous Comedian Suffers
Collapse as Result of His Bereavement

Glendale, Calif., Aug. 26.—The mother of Charles and Sydney Chaplin, Mrs. Hannah Chaplin, died at the Physicians' and Surgeons' Hospital here today. She had been ill more than a month. Her film comedian son Charles was at the bedside.

Born in London sixty-five years ago, Mrs. Chaplin early began a stage career which reached its height when she was starring in a number of Gilbert & Sullivan light operas. She was a well-known actress in Britain up to and including the period of the World War.

Tragedy came into the life and stage career of Mrs. Chaplin when she developed a mental derangement after an intensive air raid upon London by German Zeppelins. In 1921 British mental experts declared the only hope of restoring the actress's mind was an extended sea trip. She then sailed for California to live with her two sons.

GOVERNMENT'S RULING

The United States Government a few months ago declared Mrs. Chaplin had overstayed her permit to visit in the United States, and that she must return to Great Britain. Charles and Sydney Chaplin filed affidavits that their mother's mental condition was improving slowly, and they were allowed to maintain her here after posting a heavy bond. This bond still was in effect when death ended the career of the once famous actress.

Funeral plans have not been made, but friends of the family said burial probably would be made in California.

Mrs. A. Reeves, wife of the Chaplin studio manager and lifelong friend of the late English actress, said Mrs. Chaplin was in a state of collapse as the result of his mother's death.

MAYOR SAYS FIRE INSURANCE RATES TOO HIGH

Charges Reductions Earned By Low Fire Record Withheld in Victoria

Mayor Carl Pendray last night called attention to the persistent failure of the Fire Insurance Underwriters' Association to give effect to the city's claims for lower fire insurance rates.

"We have tried for years to get lower rates, but we get nothing," he protested, when the city council met last night. The city council sent Fire Chief Vernon Stewart to the Sacramento Convention of the Pacific Coast Association of Fire Chiefs, October 1 to 5.

Alderman Mara stated that the expense was "worth while," and Mayor Pendray promptly retorted: "Worth while to whom? If you find insurance companies which benefit from these meetings, the Fire Underwriters should pay the cost of conventions. They are the only people who benefit."

"We have tried for years to get lower rates for Victoria. We have an unusually low fire record, but we cannot get a report," he said.

Alderman Mara denied that the city was entitled to reductions in rates.

"Our equipment is getting old, only one piece of new equipment has been added since I became a member of the council," he said. "I know what the report will show. You will find that our rating is not now as high as it was years ago," he warned.

SAVINGS ACHIEVED

Alderman Brown declared that Fire Chief Stewart had demonstrated to him savings and betterments which had been accomplished by the Victoria Fire Department as a result of information secured at other conventions of fire chiefs. He believed that attendance of Fire Chief Stewart at Sacramento would be good business.

The council then approved the expenditure which had been included in the annual fire department estimates.

STEAMER RATE WAR BETWEEN MONTREAL AND NEW ZEALAND

Montreal, Aug. 27.—Shippers have been quick to take advantage of the cut in cargo rates between Montreal and New Zealand and the Canadian National Steamship Company has had to add two more freighters to take care of the overflow freight from its regular service steamship which sailed last Saturday. It has been learned.

What to all appearances is a rate war between the Canadian National Steamships and the New Zealand Shipping Company, operating direct service between Montreal and New Zealand, created last week by the announcement of a cut in rates from

TOWN IN ONTARIO HAS RABIES SCARE

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 28.—Panic-stricken since they received word from Toronto that the kitten which bit ten-year-old Delight Gardner was a victim of rabies, residents of Harrow, twenty-five miles from here, have destroyed no fewer than twenty-five cats and puppies have been organized to hunt down dogs.

The little girl is receiving the Pasteur treatment and her recovery is expected.

Chinese Prisoner At Oakalla Jail Escapes

Burnaby, B.C., Aug. 28.—While engaged in ditching operations on the Oakalla Prison Farm, Sam Ching, forty-seven, a Chinese inmate, made good his escape at 1:30 p.m. Monday. He disappeared into the brush before the guards could overtake him.

The Chinese had served six weeks of a six-month sentence, imposed in Vancouver on a charge of being in possession of narcotic drugs.

PRINCE GEORGE DUE TO-MORROW

Will Come to Esquimalt as Officer on H.M.S. Durban

With His Royal Highness Prince George, youngest son of Their Majesties the King and Queen of England, on board, H.M.S. Durban will arrive in Esquimalt Harbor to-morrow from Vancouver.

The Durban has been in British Columbia, Alaska and Washington waters since June 3 when she arrived from Hongkong, where she was stationed with the British fleet in the Orient. Since that time she has been at Esquimalt for several visits, made on an extensive cruise in Alaska waters as far north as Kodiak Harbor, and attended the Fleet Week celebrations of the United States navy held in Seattle Harbor. For the last ten days she has been at Comox and Vancouver.

H.M.C.S. Vancouver, Western Canada's destroyer, has been in company with the visiting ships ever since the arrival of the Durban in Seattle. She cruised north and then went to Seattle. She is at present in Vancouver and will return with the Durban and Despatch to Esquimalt to-morrow.

Several functions, both private and civil, have been arranged in honor of the visiting cruisers.

Prince George will remain here until Monday next, when he will leave on the Durban for the West Indies station. The cruiser Despatch will leave the same day.

Russia Asked To Sign New Anti-war Pact

Moscow, Aug. 28.—M. Herbetie, the French Ambassador to Russia, acting on instructions from his Government, yesterday handed to Maxim Litvinoff, Vice-Commissar for Foreign Affairs, an official invitation to Soviet Russia to join the other nations in adhering to the Anti-war Pact, signed by fifteen nations in Paris yesterday.

M. Herbetie told M. Litvinoff that any power hereafter adhering to the pact would do so only on the same conditions and with the same advantages as would accrue to those powers which signed yesterday. At the same time he handed M. Litvinoff a copy of the treaty.

STUDY CORRESPONDENCE

M. Litvinoff asked the Ambassador to communicate officially to him a list of all the Governments to which a similar invitation had been sent, as well as copies of the diplomatic correspondence concerning the treaty. This, he said, was essential for the Soviet Government's consideration of the French proposal.

FIVE DEATHS ARE RESULT OF TORONTO FIRE

Seriously Burned

Toronto, Aug. 28.—The death toll in an early morning fire on Queen Street East here was increased to five late to-day when Benjamin Klannan, aged five, died in a hospital.

Joseph Klannan, the father, his wife and one of their four children, Sidney, three, were found dead by firemen when they arrived at the Klannan home, 2414 Queen Street East, on the ground floor about 4 a.m. made such rapid progress that escape there was cut off. There was no fire escape on the building.

The Klannan family lived on third floor of a building at 207 Queen Street East, and the fire, which started in the store on the ground floor about 4 a.m., made such rapid progress that escape there was cut off. There was no fire escape on the building.

Two Victorians To Enter R.M.C.

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—The following British Columbia candidates have been selected for admission to the Royal Military College, Kingston:

Thomas Allan Thorne, Victoria; Terence William Ernest Harris, Victoria; Richard Walcott, Vancouver.

LABOR LEADER ENTERTAINED

Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald
Sees City; Is Guest at
"Benvenuto"

Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the British Labor Party and former Premier, saw the sights of Victoria today with his daughters, Isabel, Jean and Sheila.

As the guests of the Provincial Government, the distinguished visitors were taken for a drive about the city and its environs by Miss Carolyn Tolmie, daughter of Hon. S. F. Tolmie, Premier of British Columbia. Mr. MacDonald expressed continual amazement and admiration at the improvements which have taken place here since he visited the city before about twenty years ago.

After their morning drive, Mr. MacDonald and his daughters were entertained at luncheon by Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Butchart at "Benvenuto," Tod Inlet.

Dr. Tolmie, Mrs. Tolmie and Miss Carolyn Tolmie and Capt. and Mrs. J. W. Troup were among the guests.

ACQUITTAL BY JURY POPULAR

In Glasgow Woman Found
Not Guilty of Culpable Homicide

Glasgow, Aug. 28 (Canadian Press Cable).—Incidents almost unprecedented in a British court occurred here today when Christians Baillie, twenty-eight, was acquitted of a charge of culpable homicide in connection with the death of her husband.

The jury included several women, besides the foreman, and these wept unrestrainedly, with many women in the court, as they rendered the verdict.

The accused woman, leaving the courtroom, was carried shoulder high. She had testified her husband had come home drunk, demanded a meal when she had no food in the house for her four children, threatened her and broken a chair, whereupon she had struck him with a knife. He died on the way to a hospital.

WATER SUPPLY MEASURES

Roseland, B.C., Aug. 28.—In an effort to bring the water situation here to normal, the city has cut off the new reservoir, which has given the trouble, and will drain the old reservoir until the new water from Stony and Rock Creeks has cleaned them.

NELSON BORROWS $100,000

Nelson, Aug. 28.—The Nelson City Council last night decided to borrow from the bank $100,000 needed in connection with the construction of a third power unit at Bonington, pending the sale of its special bond issue of $240,000 for that purpose.

SAYS PASSENGER PLANES SHOULD BE MADE WITH PONTOONS

DWIGHT F. DAVIS
United States Secretary of War, a visitor in Seattle to-day.

PONTOONS FOR AIR LINERS

U.S. War Secretary, Visitor in Seattle, Gives Views on Passenger Planes

Seattle, Aug. 28.—The movement among Seattle aviators against the use of land planes for over-water passenger-carrying, which followed the disappearance of the Victoria-Seattle monoplane Saturday, found a champion in Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis, a visitor here today.

"An accident such as the missing aeroplane here is bound to happen in the development of any transportation, but we are steadily progressing to a point where modern science will make such mishaps impossible," Davis said.

"I do think, however, that where, as in this country, you have to fly over much water, all passenger-carrying planes should be equipped with pontoons or some such device for landing on water."

Arriving yesterday from Honolulu on the battleship Pennsylvania, the War Department head announced he would return immediately to Chicago to take the stump through the Middle West for Herbert Hoover, Republican candidate for the Presidency of the United States.

TREATY IS NEW FORCE IN WORLD

Anti-War Pact Great Influence, Say British Spokesman and League Officials

Paris, Aug. 28.—Lord Cusden, who signed the Anti-war Treaty here yesterday in behalf of Great Britain, Northern Ireland and India, said it was a great and historic event, but he cautioned against the inference that the activities of Secretary Kellogg of the United States in elaborating the treaty meant the United States would depart from its policy of aloofness toward European complications.

"So far as this pact is concerned," he said, "it carries with it no implication that the American people must concern themselves with European matters."

MORAL FACTOR

The British Minister emphasized the moral value of the pact, recalling that Napoleon once said the great factor in war was the moral factor.

SEARCH BY LAND WATER AND AIR FOR LOST PLANE

B.C. Airways President Scouring Waters Off Port Angeles In Speed Boat; Land Parties Plunge Into Chimacum Valley, While Cutters Drag Washington Harbor and Aviators Continue to Soar Over Country; "It Is Hard to Give Up Hope," Says B.C. Airways Director.

Late this afternoon strength was given to reports that the lost passenger aeroplane of the B.C. Airways had plunged into the waters of Washington Bay. Oil spots on the waters of the bay between Dungeness and Port Townsend, Wash., continued to trickle to the surface slowly today. B.C. Airways officials yesterday said that if the plane had sunk its oil would escape slowly. The depth at the spot where the oil is seen, not far from the shore, is estimated at twenty fathoms.

Ernest Eve, president of the flying company, is at the scene in the B.C. pilots' launch. United States cutters are dragging the waters.

Possible salvaging of the big plane may give some indication of the cause of what is now generally accepted to be a tragedy in which six men and one woman met death.

"It is hard to give up hope," commented Cecil Eve, director of the B.C. Airways this morning as he told of the search still being continued for the trimotored Ford passenger plane now missing with its seven occupants for nearly seventy hours.

A note of despondency in his voice told how the anxious hours and strain were telling upon him. With his brother, Ernest Eve, president of the company, he was the pioneer of aerial transportation between Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle, and to-day those Victorians who were so sincere in the commendation of their enterprise are equally sincere in extending to the two brothers their sympathy at what now appears to be a terrible tragedy.

"It is so hard to tell what may have happened," said Mr. Eve. "The plane might be anywhere within a radius of 100 miles."

RISK LIVES IN SEARCH

The two brothers have been among the most diligent of the searchers who have risked their lives flying through fog and smoke and facing conditions which aviators would risk under no other circumstances. Ernest Eve to-day chartered a speed boat and left for Port Angeles to prosecute his search over the waters from there in the hope of finding some trace of the plane.

Mr. Cresy is a personal friend of the missing pilot, and was his partner in the ill-fated Victoria-Seattle flight from Dearborn, Michigan, to Victoria.

He accompanied him on most of the flights in the plane between Seattle, Victoria and Vancouver and, as a flying man himself and former member of the Royal Flying Corps during the war, he had great admiration of Walker's skill in handling planes. Like other members of B.C. Airways force the hours of worry and anxiety are beginning to tell on him, but all are continuing the search, as they have done from the first report that the plane was missing Saturday afternoon, with a total disregard of physical and mental strain.

OVER SAN JUAN

For the second time since the plane was missing Flying Officer Hull with a seaplane from the Jericho Beach station, flew over San Juan Island yesterday only to shatter the hope and persistent rumor that the plane had landed there. All the other islands between Victoria and Seattle have been flown over by B.C. Airways planes and planes searching from Tacoma and Seattle. Three coast cutters, besides innumerable smaller craft, continued the search this morning.

SEVEN WERE ON MISSING PLANE

Passenger From Vancouver
Tells of Talk With Dr.
Soverel

East Orange, N.J., Aug. 28.—Dr. Floyd D. Soverel of this city, who is reported to have been a passenger aboard the aeroplane lost in Puget Sound, Saturday, had been traveling through the West since June with his brother, Elmer V. Soverel, and the latter's wife and two children. The itinerary called for arrival to-day at Lake Louise, Alta. No word of Soverel having been involved in the accident had been received here today.

Vancouver, Aug. 28.—Conclusive evidence that Dr. Floyd D. Soverel of East Orange, N.J., was a passenger in the ill-fated Victoria-Seattle aeroplane on Saturday, was supplied to-day by C. Crawford, thirty-four, a resident of Victoria in the plane, and talked with Soverel on the way.

"When we reached Victoria," said Mr. Crawford, "he said to me: 'This plane goes on to Seattle, doesn't it? I'll stay on board if it does.'"

"He did not disembark."

COL. GOODLAND DESCRIBES CARE OF WAR GRAVES

Victoria Officer Retires After Nine Years' Work on War
Cemeteries

COL. H. T. GOODLAND

After nine strenuous years of work in entire charge of the British war cemeteries in France and Belgium, Col. H. T. Goodland, C.B., D.S.O., has just retired, and is now in Canada on his way to his home in Victoria. He has been Deputy Controller of the War Graves Commission in France since July, 1919.

Prior to this date the cemeteries were in the hands of the army branch called the Directorate of Graves Registration and Inquiries. This had to be taken over by the commission, a division body, under royal charter, and the most friendly relations had to be established and maintained with all the various municipalities in which the war cemeteries were to be placed. Much tact and patience were required in this work, and one of the most treasured possessions of the Deputy Controller must be the personal letter received from the Prince of Wales in appreciation of the work he so successfully carried through, according to a recent article in Canada.

To control and direct a staff in France and Belgium of 2,000 foreigners not under military discipline, whose work often necessitated temporary interference with the work of the peace proprietors and the expropriation of land through the French or Belgian Governments, must have been full of delicate situations.

HEADQUARTERS AT ST. OMER

Col. Goodland, in taking over this appointment, established headquarters at St. Omer, being the only undevastated town nearest the battlefields, and the work of reconstruction started at once. The cemeteries were surveyed, fenced, levelled, and gradually planted with trees, grass and flowers. In 1919 work on the construction of permanent cemeteries was begun on three experimental sites, but the method then employed of shipping cut stone from England and employing British stonemasons and builders proved too expensive. Plans were then prepared for a system of contracts with French and Belgian builders, who were, however, supervised by British overseers, but all headstones were cut in England by British workmen and shipped across the Channel.

At St. Omer there was a staff of architects with their assistants, many draughtsmen and quantity surveyors, and a staff of surveyors. The horticultural department alone numbered some 1,200, and the total strength was over 2,000. In addition there was a transport staff of 200 drivers and mechanics, and over 150 vehicles, over 1,250,000 miles were run annually.

Col. Goodland was in direct control of the administrative department, and was responsible for the well-being, housing and medical arrangements of the entire staff, which included the families of many. For administrative purposes he divided France and Belgium into zones, each of which had a branch office, the headquarters being at Ypres, Arras, Bethune, Amiens, Albert, Soissons and Rouen. Each office was self-contained and had a superintendent in charge, with a staff of clerks, transport workers, etc.

WORK OF IDENTIFICATION

Asked how the difficulties of the identification of the bodies were overcome, Col. Goodland said that since the work of finding and reburial isolated bodies devolved on the commission in 1922, the number of these bodies founded amounted to from forty to eighty a week up to the end of 1927. Of these only about seventeen per cent were capable of identification.

Various methods were adopted for the identification, one of which was by the extensive research (after the grave had been found) of the personal effects, buttons, shoulder badges, officers' stars, etc. These were sent to the head office in London, where access to the war regimental diaries, which showed the position of the units fighting on a particular battlefield on a specific date, was possible. Scraps of paper giving the name of a village or town often afforded a clue, while men's pay books were sometimes quite decipherable. Watches and jewelry, with the exception of the metal discs used by the old army, seldom proved of use, as those made of paper mache invariably perished. Watches and jewelry found on the bodies, and teeth, often proved invaluable aids to identification. Boots alone proved whether a skeleton was British or German.

No organized search for bodies has been made since 1924, said Col. Goodland, but during the reconstruction of the towns and villages, the peasants and laborers always reported the finding of a British body to the nearest Britisher, who in every case was a Commonwealth soldier. He in turn reported the discovery to the nearest office, by whom a box, car and men were despatched to the scene of the discovery. The body, always under a Union Jack, was then taken to the nearest concentration cemetery and buried.

CEMETERIES PERMANENT

The land on which the cemeteries are situated, whether actual war cemeteries started during a battle or land subsequently started as a concentration cemetery, has been acquired by deed of gift from the French and Belgian governments, thus ensuring their permanency. Each cemetery is walled and has the Cross of Sacrifice, in bronze, and the Stone of Remembrance. The entrance features, and in the cases of the large cemeteries, the chapels and shelter houses, had all been designed with a view to permanence. In many of the large cemeteries the designs, he said, are from the pencils of eminent architects—Lutyens, Blomfield, Baker, Lorrimer and Holden—who had examined and passed the designs made by the commission's architects.

WIDE WAR SERVICE

Colonel Goodland has a very interesting record of war service. Before the war he had been largely instrumental in forming the 104th Chiltwick B.C. Fusiliers, from which he afterwards transferred to the 101st Edmonton Militia. Previous to the war both the 104th and the 101st Canadian Militia were affiliated to the 101st of the line in the British Army—the Royal Munster Fusiliers—to which regiment Captain Goodland, while on a business visit to England in August, 1914, was transferred, and posted to the 6th Battalion, stationed at the Curragh, Ireland. In January, 1915, he was appointed to the staff of the 30th Infantry Brigade, and proceeded to Gallipoli with the 10th Division. After serving at Suvla Bay and Anzac Bay he accompanied the 30th Brigade to Serbia, this brigade being the first British unit to penetrate Macedonia. He saw heavy fighting on the Bulgarian frontier, and took part in the subsequent retreat. In June, 1916, he was invalided home with paratyphoid.

MANY DECORATIONS

After rejoining his original regiment for a time, Lieut. Goodland was appointed to the command of the 1st Battalion Royal Munster Fusiliers after seeing service at Messines Ridge in the operations of 1917. When the 16th Division ceased to exist after being cut up in the retreat of March 1918, he was posted to the command of the 5th Royal Berkshire Regiment, and he served with that regiment until June,

He is a mean performer and frequently plays for the radio and entertainments.

1919, when he took the cadre of that battalion home. Colonel Goodland has received a number of Orders and Decorations including the C.B., the Medaille de Reconnaissance de France, and the Gold Medal of the Souvenir Français. His war decorations included the D.S.O. in

SEEK BETTER FACILITIES OF TRANSPORTATION

Esquimalt Urges Street Car
Route Over Johnson Street
Bridge

Attempts made by the Esquimalt Council to gain better transportation services within Esquimalt, municipality were revealed last night when Council for S. A. Pomeroy reported on an interview with B.C. Electric Railway. Councilor Pomeroy said he had made the suggestions that the B.C.E.R. tracks could be run over Johnson Street bridge or that a bus service could be operated by the street railway company. These proposals had not met favor with the company heads, he stated.

The inauguration of a private bus line serving the municipality has been mooted, and the council has this under consideration.

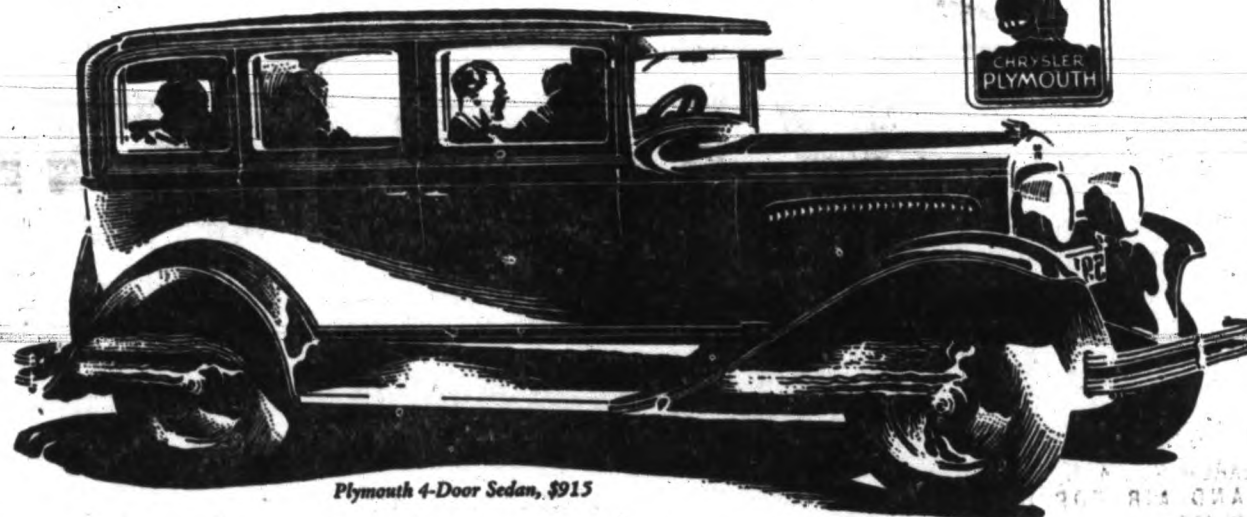

Another interview with B.C. Electric officials had been arranged, he said, before definite action was taken. It had been pointed out that Esquimalt was given as good service as other outlying districts, except during rush hours.

Councillor Heald corroborated Councilor Pomeroy's report.

SEARCH BY LAND, WATER AND AIR FOR LOST PLANE

SEARCHING CHIMACUM VALLEY

In spite of the reports which appear well established that the plane was seen headed in the direction of Chimacum Valley, a strong belief persists that the plane plunged its occupants to the sea. Virtually the last hope rests with searching parties who to-day are continuing to scour the Chimacum Valley, twelve miles south of Port Townsend and southwest of Port Hadlock. At the same time United States coastguard cutters have commenced dragging operations at Washington Harbor and in the vicinity of Dungeness Light, off the Washington Coast, where it is reported the plane struck the water. Land parties are being put off at many points to search beaches and clearings where Pilot Walker might have attempted to make a landing.

FOG AND SMOKE

The dreaded combination of fog and smoke which may have led to the accident continues to hamper the search. It is particularly the bane of aviators as it is difficult to tell where the fog commences and the water begins and smoke adds another great difficulty. The plane, weighing about five tons as it was loaded Saturday, would stand no chance if it struck the water.

PONTOONS IMPRACTICABLE

As opinion persists that the plane has plunged into the water, the question has been raised as to whether it should have been equipped with pontoons. Use of pontoons would have been impracticable in the opinion of Vancouver aviators.

In the first place, they say, the fact that the machine was tri-motored was considered a sufficient factor of safety. Fitting of pontoons on the plane would reduce its speed, an important consideration in commercial flying.

The craft was designed for land only, and was similar in type to the machine used in the cross-Channel service from Croydon to Paris, which has operated without mishap. A similar craft was used in the Bremen relief flight.

The only other design possible for a plane of this weight, say aviators, would be an amphibian, with a flying-boat hull and movable wheels. But this type is not as speedy as the Ford monoplane.

Officials of the company in this regard point out the plane was equipped with three motors. It was able to take off with a full load with two motors and could fly with one. As it carried a reserve supply of gas for an extra five hours beyond the flying time of one hour on its longest journey, it was reasonable to anticipate that a forced landing would not be necessary.

FUTURE OF AVIATION

Speculation has been rife on the future of commercial aviation as the result of the mystery. The local plane was insured to its full value, and insurance was also carried for the passengers, but doubts have been raised as to whether in view of the probable disaster, business would offer. This has not yet been considered by B.C. Airways directors, and can only be a matter of speculation. It is interesting to note, however, that some British Columbia aviators predict that the accident which apparently has overtaken the B.C. Airways monoplane will prove an impetus instead of a check to commercial aviation in British Columbia. It is contended that the mishap will bring home to the Government the necessity of providing adequate aids to aerial navigation along the air routes of this Coast.

"There is no need for despondency under the circumstances," said Capt. Leonard Miller, secretary of the Aero Club of British Columbia. "The accident, while most regrettable, is one that might have occurred in any other branch of transportation, and I believe that indirectly good will come out of it. There is no doubt that steps will be taken to increase the efficiency of navigation aids along the air routes."

"Three factors are needed to make commercial flying as safe and efficient as any other means of travel—the placing of beacons at short distances along the route, equipment of the planes with wireless, and a system of weather forecasting."

BEACONS FOR SAFETY

"Beacons are used extensively on the Croydon-Paris service, which has been operated for years without a mishap under all manner of weather conditions. These planes are equipped with radio for direction-finding purposes, as has been done in several transatlantic flights. By radio, also, the pilot could keep in touch with the weather bureau and obtain information as to conditions ahead of him. If necessary he could turn back before he ran into trouble."

Capt. Miller is of the opinion that fitting floats to the planes would not increase the safety factor.

WOULD NOT HAVE HELPED

"If the B.C. Airways machine plunged into the water because the pilot was unable to see it through the fog, it would have made no difference if the plane had had pontoons. Traveling at a high speed, the plane would have capsized and sunk just as rapidly," he said.

L. A. Dobbin, manager of the Dominion Airways Limited was also of the opinion that the necessity of aerial navigation aids along this Coast had been demonstrated by the accident.

"It certainly was no fault of either the machine or the pilot," said Mr. Dobbin. "It merely illustrates that the air routes should be marked with beacons and that a system of radio direction finding should be established."

Seattle, Aug. 28.—Search for the missing Victoria-Seattle plane which disappeared Saturday with seven passengers, shifted to-day from Washington Harbor to Oak Bay, Washington, toward the southwest, after United States coastguardmen had interviewed more than thirty residents there who were positive they had either heard or seen the plane last Saturday forenoon.

Four coastguard cutters were moved to the new base early today at the direction of Lieut.-Commander L. E. Bennett for dragging operations. Searchers yesterday frowned on the theory that the missing plane could have gone as far south as Oak Bay without being heard at points between Washington Harbor and Oak Bay, but they were changing their views to-day when the Oak Bay reports became more persistent.

Captain C. B. Stead, of the Seattle flying service, hopped off for Oak Bay early to-day despite a heavy fog, in an effort to point out to the coastguard crew an oil spot seen by him in the course of a flight he made on Sunday. If the fog clears, army, navy and civilian planes will be organized, according to Lieut.-Commander Pryce at Sand Point, naval air station, in groups to cover the Sound by 25-mile sections. Submarines were thus spotted in war time, Pryce explained.

PARIS SCENE OF ANTI-WAR PACT EVENT

New Peace Agreement
Signed There By Fifteen Nations

Paris, Aug. 28.—The "Anti-War Treaty," by which fifteen nations renounce war as an instrument of national policy, was signed here yesterday.

Less than ten minutes was required for the affixing of the signatures to the instrument which, its sponsors agree, has an immense prospect of world peace.

During the colorful proceedings forty cameras clicked, color picture machines worked, and microphones gathered the faintest sounds of the spectacular programme and broadcast them throughout Europe and to other continents.

WORK OF RATIFICATION

It is expected at least a year will elapse before the pact will be completely ratified by those countries whose parliaments must pass on it. Meanwhile it is to be open to adherence by all other civilized nations.

The potency of the treaty, it was remarked after the ceremony yesterday, was shown by the fact that the original signatures were still wet when Secretary Kellogg began receiving telegrams from countries not represented here yesterday. These messages announced the desire of these other governments to join the original signatories in the renunciation of armed conflict.

NO MILITARY DISPLAY

There was no military note to mar the civic peace character of the proceedings yesterday. Flouting flags of all nations adorned the Foreign Ministry building, but not a single bayonet was in evidence.

The authorities stressed the peacefulness of the day and Paris citizens having business in the neighborhood passed without interruption by police or soldiers.

The crowds of several thousand which watched the arrival and departure of the plenipotentiaries with the liveliest curiosity, were held on the sidewalk opposite the Ministry and on the parapets along the bank of the Seine by dismounted Republican Guards. But these guards were armed only with sheathed pistols and were shorn of all their ordinary display of plumed helmets and rattling sabres.

The sidewalk in front of the Ministry was cleared for ten yards on either side of the two entrance gates. Only those showing press cards or invitations to witness the ceremony were allowed to pass these lines.

SOVIET FLAG THERE

Except for the flag of Soviet Russia, showing a gold hammer and sickle on a red background, there was nothing to indicate Communists even existed. This flag flew over the Ministry with the emblems of the other nations.

There had been much talk of a Communist manifestation, but it showed no sign of even starting.

CEREMONY OF SIGNING

Dr. Gustav Stresemann, German Foreign Minister, was the first to sign the historic treaty, attaching his signature at 3:45 p.m.

Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg of the United States was the second to sign.

After Foreign Minister Hymans had signed for Belgium and Foreign Minister Brindard for France, Lord Curzon, Acting British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, signed in behalf of the Kingdom of Great Britain. He was followed by Premier King of Canada, Alexander Maclellan, member of the Executive Council, for the Commonwealth of Australia; Sir Christopher Parry, New Zealand; and Commissioner for Great Britain, South African High Commissioner in Great Britain, and President Coghlan, for the Irish Free State. Lord Curzon then signed again for India. Count Mancini signed for Italy, Count Uchida for Japan, Foreign Minister Zaleski for Poland, and Foreign Minister Benes for Czechoslovakia.

TERMS OF TREATY

The Renunciation of War Treaty condemns recourse to war for the solution of international controversies, and the signatories renounce it as an instrument of national policy in their relations with one another.

The treaty provides that "settlement or solution of all disputes or conflicts of whatever nature or whatever origin they may be," shall be sought only by pacific means.

The preamble declares that any signatory power which seeks to promote its national interests by resort to war shall be denied the benefits furnished by the treaty. Thus, if a signatory state resorts to war in violation of the past, the other contracting parties are released from their obligations under the treaty to that state.

MORE SHOULD BE DONE FOR BRITISH TRADE

Mr. MacDonald quoted with emphasis the statement made to him by one of the highest geological authorities in Canada, a professor at McGill University, who was interested only in the resource and not at all in the flotation or financial side. This professor had told him in Montreal that if there were only honest company flotation for the British investor, he would guarantee the honesty of the wealth in the Canadian ground as he knew the geological conditions.

"I am very anxious, indeed, that much more should be done for British trade than has been done," the former Prime Minister went on.

"I feel certain that unless there is more determination, thoroughness, and systematic thinking put into the development of our existing markets and towards the capture of markets by the British business man and financier, and unless they are willing to see that undeveloped countries are got hold of by British capital, there will be others ready to step in and take hold."

CANADA'S POPULATION

THE BUREAU OF STATISTICS AT OTTAWA estimates Canada's population at 9,389,300. Whether this estimate overstates or understates the case nobody can say, because the official census of Canada is taken only every ten years, and the next one will not be until 1931. In the three Prairie Provinces, however, the census is taken every five years, and this part of the general estimate of the Bureau may be considered accurate.

If 9,389,300 is a correct estimate of Canada's population, then we have gained 600,817 since 1921. An analysis of the estimates given by the Bureau for the various provinces shows that to that gain of over six hundred thousand Ontario and Quebec contributed 412,539; the four western provinces 156,000 and the three maritime provinces, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, 33,872.

The percentage of gain in Ontario and Quebec was greater than that of the West, while the percentage on the Atlantic seaboard was the least of all. Quebec led all of the provinces in percentage of increase, with Saskatchewan a close second and British Columbia, which has an estimated gain of 44,000 since 1921, third. British Columbia's total population is estimated at 568,000, which is a little less than the estimated population of the city of San Francisco.

About seventy-eight per cent. of the population of Canada are Canadian born. About twelve per cent. were born in the British Isles and ten per cent. in foreign countries. Of the Canadian born more than a third are of French origin, while there also is a considerable portion of those born in Canada who are of other origin than British or French. This means that there is being evolved in Canada a distinctive Canadian type of inhabitant, embodying the characteristics of many races modified by local natural conditions, geographical and otherwise, and differing from the types evolved in other countries.

This evolution is as inevitable as the process of the sun, since Canada must continue to draw upon a large part of the outside world for her population and since, obviously, it will be impossible to fill up our vast spaces from within the British Empire. If Canada took every white person from the other Dominions, leaving the British Isles, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa without a solitary white inhabitant, she would still have nearly 40,000,000 less population than the present population of the United States, which has 700,000 square miles less territory than Canada has. Hence, the Canadian will be neither English, Scottish, Irish, Welsh, French, American, nor continental European, but will be a type which will embody the characteristics of all of these races in varying degrees. He will be a Canadian.

YESTERDAY IN PARIS

THERE WERE TWO SIGNIFICANT FEATURES associated with the signing of the multi-lateral Treaty in Paris yesterday. One was the receipt of telegrams from governments other than those represented asking that they also might be permitted to subscribe to the agreement. The other was the presenting by the French ambassador at Moscow of an invitation to the Soviet Government to become a party to the pact.

The fifteen nations whose envoys signed the Treaty will welcome other signatories. It originally was arranged that those invited to be represented at yesterday's ceremony should be regarded as the initial subscribers to the agreement and that others could be added later. Chief interest now will centre on Soviet Russia's course. When the proposals of Mr. Kellogg and M. Briand first were made public the government at Moscow saw in them an attempt to associate fifteen nations in a common arrangement that would imply the complete isolation of Russia. There is nothing novel about this interpretation. It is in keeping with the Soviet's general attitude towards the rest of the world.

For her own sake and for the sake of the influence which she again might wield in the world if she would amend her tactics, it is to be hoped that the government at Moscow will accept the invitation which the French ambassador has extended to it and clear the way for Russia's association with the rest of the powers in this important undertaking. She frequently charges others with military designs upon her and offers that as the reason why she is maintaining such a large army as well as a justification for her disruptive propaganda.

It is obvious that Russia is not alarmed about the possibility of conquest by any other nation or group of nations. And it now must be patent to her that the world positively refuses to revolt, that nothing she can do will make it, but it is necessary for her to keep up the farce while she is finding a way to confess the failure of her experiment in government that will not make her look more foolish in the eyes of the rest of the world than she does now.

Russia's return to the family of nations on a friendly co-operative basis is of vital importance. The day of it cannot be much longer delayed. One hundred and fifty million people can not allow themselves to be ignored indefinitely. A way now seems to have been found for them to capitulate gracefully, discard their wild theories of world-revolution, and get back into decent international society.

OUR LIBRARY AND ARCHIVES

MANY WHO PASS THROUGH VICTORIA visit the provincial library and the archives in the Parliament Buildings and are amazed to find such a magnificent array of volumes, historical records and such interesting relics of other days. We wonder how many of our own citizens have visited that part of the legislative pile. Those who have not may be interested in reading what a writer in The Toronto Globe recently had to say about it. Here are his comments in part:

One of the places in Western Canada which every teacher should visit is the Provincial Library at Victoria, B.C. Mr. John Hoste, the Provincial Librarian and Archivist, is justly proud of the archives collection and it is a delight to go through this part of the library. It would be a great joy to have the privilege of working in this library among this fine collection of maps and pictures, original letters, notebooks, diaries, logs and other manuscripts. Cook, Vancouver, Douglas, Fraser, Thompson, Mackenzie, loom up in this archives collection, and there are many treasures relating to them. But there are also many documents from the pioneers, which make it possible to recreate those early days. There is already a great literature of the Canadian West and especially of the Pacific Coast, and the next generation will doubtless see a flood of literature based on these early records. An added value of this British Columbia collection is its accessibility. It is housed in a suite of well-appointed rooms, with trained attendants, and as a result, workers are there constantly, delving into its riches.

There is a great deal to be learned even from a casual saunter through the archives department of the library. Many interesting objects are in full view and carefully and clearly described. The officials are always ready to devote their time to the visitor who is in search of information. In fact, of all the non-productive branches of the public service of British Columbia the provincial library takes first place in importance.

POLITICS AND HOME BUILDING

DURING THE RECENT PROVINCIAL election campaign a number of newspapers supporting the Conservative Party solemnly told us that this province had got into a bad mess and conditions would not improve as long as a Liberal government remained in office. One of these newspapers was The Vancouver Daily Province which twelve months ago said that "on the whole the finances of British Columbia have been capably and honestly administered by the Oliver Government," and "there has been a real development of the province by virtue of a comprehensive road-building policy." Our contemporary has not yet explained why it changed its tone in so short a time. But we may refer it to its own front page of a few days ago on which it told us that the number of homes in Greater Vancouver, as disclosed by the 1928 edition of Wrigley's Directory, in 1928 is 62,097, compared with 54,745 twelve months ago, an increase of 4,352.

The impartial observer of conditions in British Columbia will admit that if this province had not made very considerable progress in the last few years, the city of Vancouver could not have increased the number of its homes in twelve months to such an extent as shown by the directory to which we have referred. What has been taking place in Vancouver has been taking place in other cities and towns of the province. Interior newspapers show that such cities as Kamloops, Nelson, Revelstoke, have been building homes in increasing numbers from year to year. It is necessary only to drive round the residential sections of this city to realize how many homes continue to go up here. Home building obviously is the best indication of the state of economic conditions. Homes cost a considerable amount of money and people do not shoulder the obligation unless they see a reasonable prospect of being able to discharge it. There was nothing the matter with the province. The Government was doing good work. "It's time for a change" won the election.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

THE ANGO-FRENCH ACCORD

France and England have plainly shown that they desire the approval of the United States, and Washington, according to dispatches, has indicated it is not unsympathetic toward their efforts. The Anglo-French accord may therefore be regarded as a friendly gesture to America. At least it marks the end of the bitterness caused by the collapse of the ill-timed conference of a year ago, which Congress prevented the Administration from making worse by a retaliatory and all but hostile move.

DESTRUCTIVE PROGRESS

(The giant redwoods of California are being cut down ruthlessly by lumber companies.) The irony of it is that among the redwoods we are cutting down trees that are forty centuries old—to build bungalows, make railway ties and split into grapestakes—chiefly grapestakes. Any fool can make a grapestake; but "only God can make a tree." When a big tree falls with the boom of thunder, everybody knows that something lies prostrate that can never be replaced. A second growth may spring from the stump; but humanity is too impatient and avaricious to wait 4,000 years again.

A THOUGHT

Love is the fulfilling of the law.—Romans xiii. 10.
Love is the beginning, the middle and the end of everything.—Lactantius.

BRIDGE MADE EASY

by W.W. Wentworth

(Abbreviation: A—ace; K—king; Q—queen; J—jack; X—any card lower than 10.)

THE SINGLETON LEAD
The disadvantage of the singleton lead when you hold strength or length in trumps is exemplified in the illustrations which follow. In each instance south's declaration of hearts and west who must lead holds:

1—Spades, A Q 10 XXX; hearts, K XXX; diamonds, X; clubs, XX.
West should not lead the singleton as he holds four trumps to an honor. He should lead his longest and strongest suit even though it is a solid suit. His opening lead should be the spade Ace. He should continue that suit on each occasion, endeavoring to weaken the declarer's strong trump hand.

2—Spades, A K Q XXX; hearts, XXXX; diamonds, X; clubs, XX.
West should not hold the singleton when he holds four small trumps with a strong side suit. He should lead the strong unit and endeavor to weaken the declarer's strong trump hand. West's best opening lead is the spade King; diamonds, X; clubs, XXXX.

3—Spades, X; hearts, XXXX; diamonds, X; clubs, XXXX.
West should lead the singleton. With four small trumps or less and a "Yarborough," the gamble may be successful.

MAN WHO SHOT FIVE CAPTURED

Three Men Killed and Two Wounded By Crazy Resident of Sacramento, Cal.

Stockton, Cal., Aug. 28.—Percy Barnes, said to have killed three of his wife's relatives in Sacramento last night, was caught on the outskirts of Stockton on the lower Sacramento road by police.

Barnes expressed surprise when arrested, and declared he knew nothing of the shooting. He had a gun on his hip and another beside him on the seat of his car, both fully loaded. There were three empty shells in the car.

THREE KILLED AND TWO WOUNDED
Sacramento, Cal., Aug. 28.—Three men were shot and killed and two were wounded, one probably fatally, here last night. Police attributed the shootings to Percy Barnes, a railroad employee, who ran amuck.

Those killed were Charles E. Curtis, brother-in-law of Barnes; Charles Kline, another brother-in-law of Barnes, and an unidentified man about thirty years old, shot through the head.

The wounded, Clarence Muncy, who was said to have been visiting at the home of Barnes' estranged wife, and M. H. Larkin, president of the Larkin Transportation Company, Sacramento, CAPTURED IN AUTOBOMB.

Shortly afterward word came from Stockton that authorities there had captured Barnes as he sped into the city in his automobile and that he denied knowledge of the shootings.

As the Sacramento police placed their evidence together and added what knowledge they had of Barnes' past life, they attributed the night's affair to insanity, the basis of which was Barnes' jealousy of his estranged wife's alleged attentions toward Muncy and of his desire to regain possession of the four-year-old child, which Mrs. Barnes had taken to live with her.

It is believed that Barnes was suffering from mental derangement, and that he was in a state of mind when he committed the shootings that he was not responsible for his actions.

TO CONTINUE EFFORTS FOR STEEL WORKS

Council Tenders Industrial Committee Confidence Vote

Critical Aldermen Charged With Insulting Industrial Magnates

Possibility of securing location of a steel barrel factory in Victoria has not entirely vanished, in the opinion of a majority of the City Council, despite the receipt last night of a letter from C. D. Hobbs, managing directors of Steel Containers Limited, who said: "It is in the best interests of all to discontinue negotiations with regard to the establishment of our factory in your city."

Following somewhat bitter exchanges between Alderman Litchfield and Mara, the council referred to the industrial committee, with a view to reopening negotiations, the following letter from Mr. Hobbs to Mayor Carl Pendray, dated August 16:

"With reference to our negotiations for the establishment of a steel barrel factory in the city of Victoria.

"Since the last meeting of your City Council I have given your statement into this question with my directors, and we feel that, after the very undesirable publicity we received as the result of last Monday night's council meeting, it is in the best interests of all to discontinue negotiations with regard to the establishment of our factory in your city."

Thanking you, Alderman Litchfield, the industrial committee, and those aldermen who gave us such a courteous hearing.

"As you are aware, we did not seek Victoria as a site for our factory, but were approached by yourself in the first instance, but we have come to the conclusion that some of your aldermen do not want the establishment of industries in Victoria."

"Again, thank you for your letter, and we are, Sir, very truly yours, C. D. HOBBS, Managing Director."

Alderman Joseph Clearhue moved that the letter be referred to the industrial committee, remarking that the backers of the proposed industry had been very desirable people to bring to Victoria, and that the matter should not be allowed to stand.

Alderman Percy Brown, seconding the motion, said he had viewed the Vancouver plants operated by Mr. Hobbs and his associates. The steel barrel plant operated by Mr. Hobbs would have been one of the best industries the city had ever interested in location in Victoria.

"I do not think the aldermen opposing the proposal realized how large a business was involved," he said.

TELLS OF COST
Alderman John L. Mara moved that the letter be received and filed. He said the letter had been put to considerable expense to get it into the council and it was only right that other members of the council besides the members of the industrial committee should be informed as to the amount expended and for what purposes.

"In view of the evident desire of Alderman Clearhue to reopen negotiations, possibly with larger concessions, I would call your attention to a recent editorial in The Financial Post of Toronto, which might have been written regarding Victoria," he said, proceeding to read an article advocating limitation of aid to home industries and opposing the encouragement of outside concerns by heavy premiums.

"These Steel Containers are not coming here because they cannot get what they want," he said.

Alderman John A. Worthington, seconding the motion, stated he had been assured by C. J. V. Spratt that the Victoria Machinery Depot Limited was prepared to put in the necessary plant to make barrels without any bonuses from the city, provided orders for the product could be obtained.

Alderman Litchfield hoped the newspapers would publish Mr. Hobbs' letter in full.

"It makes one almost despair," he said. "After six months of hard work, getting into shape negotiations for two such industries, in the space of one little hour two aldermen are able to create such an impression on business men that they do not wish to do any business with the city of Victoria," he complained.

The workmen, the retail merchants or the average citizens of Victoria knew what was really at stake in their views on the two aldermen who almost wrecked the negotiations," he asserted.

BUSINESS MEN INSULTED
"We had wanted the council to quietly discuss the matter with the aldermen, but instead of a business proposition, instead of those eminent business men were deeply insulted," he charged.

"If I were to operate as the representative of the council in future negotiations I must have a united Council behind me, at least in extending respect to business men."

Alderman Worthington immediately protested.

"Does Alderman Litchfield intimate that Alderman Mara or myself insulted these men? All we asked for was information," he explained, being supported by Alderman Mara.

Mayor Pendray provided an armistice by interjecting: "There should have been a private discussion. Mr. Hobbs was charged with coming here to get cheap money. Publicity was not proper at that stage. The proposals should have been fully discussed prior to being laid before the people."

He explained that the expenses incurred by the industrial committee amounted to about $100, at the outside only $150.

"Criticism of this point is unwarranted. Alderman Litchfield has been commended for his activity, not sat upon," he said.

Alderman Worthington declared he was strongly in support of the industrial committee, and with the industrial committee in such cases "up to the hilt."

ONLY REASONABLE QUESTIONS
Alderman Mara protested: "There were no insults," he said, "and no reasonable questions. Mr. Hobbs certainly told me, in the Royal Trust office, that he was coming here to get cheap money."

Mayor Pendray interjected: "He denied that," and Alderman Mara countered: "My word is as good as his. You have no right to state that I insulted them. If their skins are so thin that they cannot stand frank questioning it is just as well they are not coming here."

Alderman Clearhue objected to criticism of expenses. He had given a day of his time to visit the Vancouver plants operated by Mr. Hobbs and his associates, and was prepared to pay his own expenses. He would give his cheque for $15 to the city clerk tomorrow if Alderman Mara maintained his objection, he said.

Alderman William Marchant supported the motion to continue negotiations. Past experience had shown that unless the city goes out to obtain manufacturers, it is most unlikely to obtain them, he recalled.

He could not understand why the named local firm had not already belated the action of Mr. Spratt in coming forward at this time. There was nothing unreasonable about it, he said. Personally I would like industries without bonuses, but history shows it cannot be done here in Victoria. There was nothing unreasonable about it, he said. TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY

The Victoria Daily Times, August 27, 1903.

The shooting season opens on Tuesday next and sportsmen are getting their guns in shape.

Inquiries have been received in this city regarding the wreckage reported to have been found on the west coast of Queen Charlotte Island, which would indicate that the Puget Sound lumber carrier Catherine has met with disaster. With valuable furs, ivory and other cargo from Siberia, the steamship Manawatu arrived this morning from the North, having called at Rome en route from Asiatic ports.

The cable repair ship Iris is taking on stores in Esquimalt preparatory to leaving for Banfield Creek to-morrow.

The C.P.R. is giving a reduction in its freight rates between this city and Winnipeg.

Weather forecast—Victoria and vicinity: Moderate or fresh winds, generally fair and cooler.

The visiting members of the Washington Press Association last evening after the meeting in the City Hall, visited the Douglas Gardens.

by interjecting: "There should have been a private discussion. Mr. Hobbs was charged with coming here to get cheap money. Publicity was not proper at that stage. The proposals should have been fully discussed prior to being laid before the people."

MUST CONTINUE WORK
The question is: Is the industrial committee to continue its work or is it to make known to the world that neither by bonus, gift of land, tax exemption or any other concessions will we be willing to attract new concerns? Personally I have much sympathy with the work of the industrial committee, I support the motion as a vote of confidence in the industrial committee," he said.

Alderman Mara protested that opponents of guarantees of principal, and interest had no objection to tax exemption or free sites.

"We are opposed to buying industries, it is not necessary," he said. The motion to continue negotiations was adopted with Alderman Worthington and Mara recording opposition; Alderman Adam and Woodward were absent.

MARKET ACT IS UPHELD BY JUDGE
Mr. Justice Murphy Rules in Favor of Validity of B.C. Produce Statute

Vancouver, Aug. 28.—The British Columbia Produce Marketing Act is upheld by Mr. Justice Murphy of the Supreme Court of British Columbia in a written judgment filed yesterday on the habeas corpus application made on behalf of Chung Chuk, who submitted to a fine of $10 in order to test the measure in the courts. The conviction is upheld.

The judge, after citing numerous authorities upon the points raised, and particularly in respect to the main attack, which was to the effect that the Marketing Act is in conflict with section 486 of the Criminal Code of Canada and is in restraint of trade, says: "The fifth and substance of the Produce Marketing Act appear in the portion of section 10 and in the definition of 'marketing' above quoted."

"These provisions, in my mind, are exclusively with property and civil rights in the Province. Section 10 and the regulations thereby authorized state in reference to any product covered by the act, whether or not and at what time and in what quantities and from and to what places and at what prices and on what terms the same can be marketed and delivered."

BUYING AND SELLING
"Marketing as defined deals exclusively with a citizen's right to buy and sell and ship such product and to make contracts in reference thereto. All these are matters affecting civil property and civil rights."

It is explained that property and civil rights come within the jurisdiction of the provinces under powers conferred by the British North America Act.

PROVINCIAL LEGISLATION
Continuing, Mr. Justice Murphy says: "The only facts proved in the case at bar on this phase are the provisions of the Produce Marketing Act and the regulations passed thereunder. Can these be said to be 'exclusive' or 'unreasonable' as these words are herebefore defined? In the first place they are the enactments of the Legislature or its authorized authority. The Legislature, I take it, must be taken, at any rate prima facie, to have authorized no 'undue' or 'unreasonable' act in the above sense. If the court is to examine into the matter the provisions of the act, on their face, do not seem to be either 'undue' or 'unreasonable' as these terms have been defined."

NO CONFLICT
Commenting upon the relation of the act to the Criminal Code section covering combines in restraint of trade, the judge finds: "It would therefore seem that there are no grounds apparent on the present record that would justify the conclusion that what the Produce Marketing Act authorizes is necessarily a violation of section 486 of the Criminal Code."

He further adds: "The Province, in passing the Produce Marketing Act, was in no way meddling with section 486. It was occupying a field of legislation exclusive of its own, since the 'marketing' occurred wholly within the Province."

"The application is refused," he said. H. S. Hogg appeared in support of the application, and J. W. deB. Farris, K.C., for the Attorney-General of British Columbia, and R. L. Fairfield, K.C., for the Committee of Direction under the act.

Will Organize Women's Auxiliary To Navy League

For the purpose of organizing a Women's Auxiliary to the Victoria branch of the Navy League of Canada, a meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. Hebdon Gillespie, Windyhaugh, Fairfield Road, on Thursday afternoon, September 6, at 3 o'clock.

The Navy League is endeavoring to arouse a public consciousness from one end of the Dominion to the other as to the need of manning Canadian mercantile ships with Canadian boys, thus affording another vocational opportunity for the youths of the country who might otherwise seek opportunity across the line. It is felt that a women's auxiliary could lend valuable co-operation in the work of the league.

MARKED SUCCESS*Shawigan Event Draws
Large Crowds and Provides Keen Competition

Shawigan Lake, Aug. 28. — The twenty-third annual regatta was held at the lake on Saturday and proved an unqualified success. A long programme of land sports and water events provided entertainment for a large gathering of people from up-island points and Victoria.

An added feature of the day was a soft-ball contest between a team from Sooke and the Shawigan Lumber Company's nine. For this event, H. Goulding Wilson gave a handsome cup which will be competed for annually at the regatta.

One of the outstanding events was the winning of the one-mile single scull race by Walter Iford who now takes the Peden Cup, having won the race three times in succession. There was keen competition for all the events of the long programme.

The soft ball game was played in the evening, filling the time before the regatta dance. The Sooke team won by the narrow margin of one run.

The dance was enjoyable, upwards of 200 attending. During the evening Judge D. A. Macdonald presented the cups and trophies, congratulating the recipients for their prowess and adding a word of praise for J. A. Worthington, chairman, and Eric Walker secretary, and the various committees in charge of the affair. The winners of the land sports were:

Boys and girls, 3 to 5—1. Margaret Linnell; 2. Irene Fielding; 3. John Haggie.

WILL ENFORCE MINING LAWS

Wildcat Operations Will Be Curbed, Says New Mines Minister

Instructions to all engineers of the Provincial Department of Mines, aimed at curbing wildcat operations, have been sent out by Hon. W. A. McKenzie, Minister of Mines.

While not wishing to check the free flow of capital into the Province, Mr. McKenzie argues that the history of British Columbia was interested in mining greater than now and that mining must be kept on a sound, healthy basis.

Mining laws as at present designed to prevent fraudulent operations will be rigidly enforced, he says, remarking that at no time have such measures been so necessary owing to the present activity in mining. The provisions of the Mineral Survey and Development Act, which call for the careful inspection on the part of Government engineers of all properties which are the subject of flotation, are impressed upon the engineers. Mr. McKenzie also points out that any investor wanting information on mining properties can obtain it at the Mines Department.

POOLEY QUILTS LAW BUSINESS

To devote himself entirely to the duties of Attorney-General, Hon. R. H. Pooley will retire from the legal firm of Pooley, Linton & Pooley, which he has headed since 1917, after which he came on to Vancouver and took the boat for Victoria.

On their return trip they will pass through the Kootenai Valley, the Okanagan, Nelson, Kootenay Lake, Crow's Nest Pass, Lethbridge, Medicine Hat, Regina, Winnipeg and Port Arthur. On September 6 they will arrive in Montreal from which port they will start for home by the St. Duchesne of Bedford.

After spending some time at Port McNeill they continued their trip on a Great Lakes steamer to Port William, thence to Calgary, Banff, Lake Windermere and Lake Louise by train. Leaving Lake Louise the party journeyed to Moraine Lake and the Valley of Ten Peaks, after which they came on to Vancouver and took the boat for Victoria.

On their return trip they will pass through the Kootenai Valley, the Okanagan, Nelson, Kootenay Lake, Crow's Nest Pass, Lethbridge, Medicine Hat, Regina, Winnipeg and Port Arthur. On September 6 they will arrive in Montreal from which port they will start for home by the St. Duchesne of Bedford.

YOUR BABY and MINE

By MRS. MARY ELLEN

Mrs. Ellen will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

ALIMENTS DUE TO TEETHING ONLY

TEMPORARY

Mrs. L. J. writes:

"My baby, aged ten months, is having considerable trouble teething. I have tried all the home remedies. I know of and also medicine from the doctor. For the last four months there have been signs of teeth, but not a single one is through. He has had a fever for twenty-four days, and has lost three pounds, and doesn't laugh or act lively as he did. Up to that time he was full of life and play. I am awfully uneasy about him. Does fever cause a child to urinate too often? I have been reading your column and hope you can help me. Baby also has a deep chest cold and a cough."

ANSWER

This letter indicates to me at least the common falling of mothers to attribute everything which is wrong with a baby during the teething period, to teeth. This doesn't sound at all to me as if the baby were suffering from teeth, but possibly whooping cough.

A fever which lasts twenty-four days doesn't come from teeth, and neither does deep chest cold and cough. The thing to do now is to forget teeth and teething remedies, whatever they may be, and take the baby to a doctor and find out exactly what is wrong with him. However, medicines might increase urination, fever alone would decrease

it.

A teething baby may have loose movements, a slight fever, or even a very high fever, a loss of appetite, for two or three days preceding the appearance of a tooth. If he is sick any longer than this then something else is wrong, and you only delay its cure

by saying: "It's his teeth."

Mrs. S. A. S.

We offer to our readers leaflets on question as to whether it is more dangerous for a woman of thirty-eight to have a baby than a younger woman.

Your own common sense will tell you that your muscles are not as elastic

as ten or twenty years ago, but it depends a great deal on what type of a middle-aged woman you are. If you would have kept active and strenuous you may have no more trouble than you would have had earlier in life.

Why don't you have a general physical examination and let the doctor advise you?

ARIZONA MARU
HAS BIG PARTYCollege Party on Board;
Japanese Industrial Leader
Also PassengerWill Arrive From China and Japan on September 4

On the last leg of their tour of the Orient a party of twenty college men and women from various colleges and universities in the eastern United States will pass through Victoria next Tuesday, September 4, on the O.S.K. liner Arizona Maru, which will dock here early on the morning of that day from China and Japan. Under the auspices of the American Students' Tours Association the party sailed from Seattle and Victoria for the Orient early in June and since that time have been visiting all the larger cities of Japan and China. They will be shown the sights of Victoria during the two-hour stay of the liner at this port and will leave on her for Seattle, from where they will enroute for their various destinations in eastern parts of the United States.

LEADER ABOARD
Also a passenger aboard the Arizona, which left Yokohama on August 23 for this port is S. Fukuhara, Japanese industrial leader, on his way to Brazil in connection with the emigrant movement from Japan to that country. Mr. Fukuhara is a director of a Japanese company which operates cotton spinning mills in the Orient and is president of a new organization formed for the purpose of furthering development in South America.

HEAVY CARGO
The Arizona Maru has a capacity cargo and a big passenger list. She is bringing nearly 8,000 tons of freight for Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle, including 3,000 bales of raw silk and thirty tons of manufactured silk goods. Eighty tons will be left at

VALUABLE SILK
CARGOES HERE
OVER WEEK-END

Nearly $10,000,000 worth of raw silk and made-up silk goods passed through Victoria over the week-end on three liners inbound from China and Japan. This comprises the largest and most valuable figure to touch at Victoria over a three-day period for many months. The N.Y.K. liner Shidzuka Maru carried the heaviest cargo, bringing in 5,000 bales from Japan on Friday evening. On Saturday morning the C.P.R. liner Empress of Canada brought 2,500 bales and yesterday morning the American Mail liner arrived with 1,500 bales, making the total valuation approximately $10,000,000.

this port. In her cold storage compartments the liner is carrying 100 tons of perishables, consisting mostly of eggs from China.

Her exceptionally large passenger list of 114 is made up of eighty-six steerage travelers, eleven of whom are on this port, and twenty-eight cabin passengers for Seattle.

WEST COAST
SEASON ENDSPrincess Maquinna Will Take Last Tourist Trip Tomorrow Evening

The tourist season for the West Coast of Vancouver Island will close to-morrow evening with the sailing of the C.P.R. steamer Princess Maquinna for West Coast points as far north as Queen's Cove. The Princess Mary took her last tourist sailing as far as Port Alice on Saturday. She will return on Thursday.

During September the Princess Maquinna and the Princess Mary will maintain a schedule to the coast as far as Port Alice, sailing from Victoria on September 1, 8, 11, 16, 21 and 26. After that the Maquinna will keep the schedule, sailing from Victoria on the first, the eleventh and the twentieth of each month for the West Coast.

The season closing has been a most successful one for the West Coast. The Princess Mary will keep the schedule, sailing from Victoria on the first, the eleventh and the twentieth of each month for the West Coast. The Princess Maquinna will keep the schedule, sailing from Victoria on the first, the eleventh and the twentieth of each month for the West Coast.

WILL TAKE LAST ALASKA SAILING TO-MORROW NIGHT

SS. PRINCESS CHARLOTTE

which will take her last trip of the season to Alaska from Vancouver to-morrow evening at 9 o'clock. Since commencing her tourist schedule to Skagway on June 15 the Charlotte has had a most successful season, carrying hundreds of passengers from all parts of the continent. The Charlotte will return from her northern trip on September 7 and will lay over until the end of the month when she will be put on the northern run between Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle for the winter months. The Princess Louise will maintain the Alaska schedule during September leaving Vancouver on September 5, 14 and 26. During October the Princess Alice will take the northern sailings and the Princess Mary will take over the schedule for the winter, in November.

Will Take Final
Seattle Excursion
Thursday This Week

On what will probably be the final excursion trip of the summer season to Seattle, the C.P.R. steamer Princess Patricia will take a large number of Victorians to the Sound City and return on Thursday of this week, leaving Victoria at 9 o'clock and returning about 10 o'clock. An orchestra will be carried for dancing and about five hours will be given the local excursionists in Seattle.

There will be no excursion from Victoria this year on Labor Day. It was announced at the C.P.R. office here today. The Princess Patricia, however, will take a trip from Vancouver to Victoria and return on that day.

VANCOUVER CHINESE DIED

Vancouver, May 25.—The body of Lee Nean Poo, a Chinese who lived on Shanghai Alley here, was found in his room last night. Death apparently occurred several days ago.

Good Temper,
And an Apology!

(By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON)

I have watched him for years, the little conductor who boards the car at the city line, and collects the city fares.

I have a wager up with myself that some day I am going to catch him. Some hot day when people won't move up and he can't push his eighty odd pounds of skin and bones through the crowds. I'm going to see him lose his temper and say terrible things. He'll forget all the sugar talk to boys and girls, too, and that's what my wager is about mostly.

Now my acquaintance with the conductor began about the time I began to remember things. He had a little thready beard then. He has it now. It seems never to have grown, it seems never to have begun grinning, and yet for the most part for years—have elapsed since he used to lift me up from the street to the car platform and put the rope for the mules to resume their journey along the cobblestone track.

He does not know me. Why should he? He has no speaking acquaintances over eight. You lose the right to his brass-buttoned favors the minute you go into the season's round. That is why he isn't president of the road by this time. By all rights and privileges he should be.

Last week on a hot crowded car he got on at the city line and began to ring up fares as usual. He looked very tired and very frail. I decided my wager was off for the trip—the odds were too much against him. Anyone had a right to lose his temper on such a day.

But I had taken too much for granted. In the middle of the car a woman with a little boy was paying her fare. She asked for a quarter's worth of tickets and handed him a dollar bill.

The conductor gave her the tickets and then held a handful of silver toward the little boy. "Twenty-five out of a dollar, captain," he said. "Can you count the change?" With his help the pleased little fellow picked it out.

The conductor gave it to the mother, and looking quite grateful at the child he remarked in admiration, "You're a real banker, you are, sir, and soon as you start your bank let me know and I'll put a million dollars in it. My wager is off. I owe him an apology. Here it is."

HEAVY TRAVEL
EXPECTED HERE
OVER WEEK-ENDSteamship Companies Preparing for Capacity Crowds on Labor Day

Local steamship companies operating vessels between Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle are preparing for heavy crowds over the Labor Day week-end, the last holiday of the summer season. Usually all lines operating between the three cities are crowded to capacity over this week-end perhaps the most popular in the year, as both Canada and the United States celebrate it.

The C.P.R. always has its crack steamers, the Princess Kathleen and the Princess Marguerite crowded to capacity over Labor Day week-end, and this year is expected to have no exception to that rule. An extra steamer each way will be put on the midnight run between Victoria and Vancouver.

LONGER WEEK-END
Victorians may spend a longer week-end in Seattle this year than before by using the new Edmonds-Victoria ferry steamer City of Victoria. This service enables local people to have at least two full days in the Sound City. Leaving Victoria on Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock, the ferry reaches Edmonds at 5 o'clock and passengers arrive in Seattle forty-five minutes later by bus. All Saturday evening and all Sunday and Monday until 5 o'clock can be spent in Seattle. Visitors start home from Seattle then, leaving Edmonds at 6 o'clock and arriving in Victoria Monday evening at 10 o'clock.

The Puget Sound Navigation Company is also looking for a heavy week-end. With its new steamer Iroquois operating between Seattle and Victoria, this route may be of Port Angeles and Port Townsend is already becoming more popular. The ferry steamer Olympic, of the same company, will be operating to Port Angeles on two round trips, leaving Victoria at 9 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. and Port Angeles at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m.

FERRIES TO BE BUSY
Ferry routes leading from the Mainland to the Island are also expected to carry capacity loads over the week-end. The Princess Elaine and the Motor Princess, of the Vancouver-Nanaimo run, and the City of Angeles and the City of Bellingham, on the Sidney-Anacortes-Bellingham schedule, will handle the rush between these points.

NOTICE TO MARINERS

Mariners are notified that the light on the gas and whistling buoy at the entrance to Port San Juan, Strait of Juan de Fuca, B.C., is reported not burning.

This light will be attended to as soon as possible.

Sixty-six Women In Marathon

Swimmers Ready For First Of Twin-bill At Toronto To-morrow

Gertrude Ederle, Ethel Hertle and Millie Hudson Are Favorites for Ten-mile Swim; First Five Will Qualify for Men's Fifteen-mile Swim Next Week; Many Countries Represented in Race; Canada Will Have Five Strong Contenders, Who, However, Have Been in Few Competitions

Toronto, Aug. 28.—Trained to the minute, sixty-six women swimmers, among them some of the greatest in the world, eased off their work-outs yesterday and prepared for medical examination today which will precede their swimming in the first part of the double-barrelled Wrigley marathon at the Canadian National Exhibition Wednesday.

Although some forecast a "dark horse" will win, newspaper editors Gertrude Ederle, first woman to swim the English Channel, and Ethel Hertle, of New York, as their favorites.

RICH PRIZES AT STAKE
The women will compete over a ten-mile course in Lake Ontario off the Canadian National Exhibition sea-wall for a first prize of $10,000, four other prizes and the right to enter the fifteen-mile swim with the men of September 5. The five prize-winners will be the only female swimmers eligible for the second swim, first prize in which is $25,000. Should a woman win both events, she would of course receive $35,000 in prizes and the world's championship of both sexes.

The wisecracks of the swimming game predict that the women's race will be the most spectacular aquatic gambol in the history of this type of sport. For this prediction they offer three excellent reasons, namely, Gertrude Ederle, the English Channel swimmer, all three are entered and there are several hundreds of self-confessed experts willing to swear that each of them will win. Others think this profusion of stars makes it an excellent spot for a dark horse.

"Trudie" Ederle drew a bombshell into local swim circles by coming out of semi-retirement and announcing, after a period of secret training in Toronto, that she would enter and, if possible, win. She drew not, it must be said, exude confidence. She never has, in fact, before any event. But neither does she worry.

TWO THINGS CAN HAPPEN
"Only one of two things can happen," said the United States' most famous female swimmer, "either I will win or I will lose. I can stand both."

Miss Ederle has been out of competitive swimming for years, even before she beat the Channel. Her return was a complete surprise and her arrival absolutely unheralded. She has really not been racing since the days when she was an Olympic champion. With Gertrude as her coach and mentor, Margaret, her sister, as well as Margaret's twin daughters who will, it is said, be wheeled to the shore-line on the day of the race to add their whoops and gurgles to the cheering for their little.

LITTLE BUT GOOD
Millie Hudson is a diminutive marathoner who has not yet actually done the English Channel, but who missed accomplishing it by only two miles. She was originally a South African aquatic star, but has recently been living in England, and is entered from there. She is accompanied by a dietitian and, it is understood, is receiving quiet coaching from the Olympic expert, Eric Barendse, who directs the destinies of Bruce Verner, winner of the 1927 marathon. Ethel Hertle is a pretty, blonde, broad-shouldered New Yorker and a former clubmate of Gertrude Ederle. Miss Hertle raced right with the leaders for fourteen miles of the last race and shows unusual speed and endurance in her training here. She was an overwhelming favorite before the race, but she was unexpectedly entered, and is still favored by a great many.

REAL "FISH" ENTERS
The second United States woman Channel conqueror, Millie Glade Coran, the mother of two children, is a sure starter. So is the holder of the world's endurance record, Myrtle Huddleston, who wrecked existing marks a few weeks ago. It was reported at the time that the long immersion had undermined her physique, but she insists that she is in the best of condition for the Toronto battle.

The California endurance record-holder, Lettie Fournier, is also entered. So has the Swiss-American star, Martha Steger, who was one of the 1927 prize winners. Another outstanding Californian is Leven Davidson of the same swimming club as Mrs. Davidson, telephoned her entry from California an hour before the lists closed on August 15.

Capt. George Coran Jr., a Canadian coach now living in Denver, has brought a new training first for the race. She is Ruth Tower of Denver, tall and with beautiful red hair, who is a powerful swimmer.

Holland is sending R. Butler, a swimmer whose abilities in fresh water races are little known here. There are also Lithuanian, German and Finnish women swimmers participating in the marine festival.

CANADA HAS THREE
Canada has five strong native contenders. There is the Finnish-Canadian "sweetheart" of the 1927 swim, Edith Heden of Toronto; the Spanish-Canadian star from Ottawa, Helene Fernandez-Garza, who is being trained by George Young's coaches; the Canadian women's title-holder, Daisy King Shaw of Shawinigan Falls; Guy, the Winnipeg-trained marathoner, Mrs. Burrows, and the Ontario and Maritime Province record-holder, who was

WALKER SEEKS BATTLE WITH T. LOUGHRAN

Victory Over Armand in San Francisco Makes Middle-weight Champ Ambitious

Two Rights to Chin Finish Prominent Lighthweight in Seventh Round

San Francisco, Aug. 28.—The middleweight champion went hunting for bargains in the light heavyweight division and got what he wanted because that tremendous thump and thump heard last night in Recreation Park was Armand Emanuel, San Francisco, hitting the canvas for the full count in the seventh round of a scheduled ten-round bout.

With the spectacular attack that helped him win and head the welterweight and middleweight titles in turn, Mickey Walker punched Emanuel out of the 175-pound class, temporarily at least. Two short right-handers did the trick. The first time it landed, Armand reeled on the canvas for nine seconds. He got up groggy, and during a hard exchange in which he tried to regain ground, bumped into another right to the jaw that put him out for the full count. Handlers had to help him to his corner and he was dazed long after reaching his dressing room.

FIRST KNOCKOUT
It was the first knockout ever chalked up against the twenty-two-year-old lawyer-boxer and his second defeat in more than thirty fights. A few months ago he gave Tommy Loughran a great battle, losing a close decision.

The first four rounds were tabulated in favor of the middleweight champion, who zipped over enough lefts to the body to offset Emanuel's two-for-one blows to the face. On the short end of the battle, Armand rallied in the next two rounds. He carried the fight to Walker and piled up sufficient points to gain a margin in the sessions. The seventh round opened faster than any of the previous rounds with Emanuel out in front, when Walker's right sailed over. It clipped the San Franciscan flush on the chin, but he slipped to his feet at the count of nine. Instead of sparing for time or going into a clinch, he rushed his lighter opponent and for a few seconds had the better of the milling. Walker waited for an opening, and as Armand bowed in, drove over a right that sprawled his rival in the middle of the ring. Emanuel's head bounced up and the count of ten was by a formal referee Bobby Johnson.

FOG HIT ATTENDANCE
Approximately 20,000 persons paid around $50,000 to see the bout. Foggy and cool weather held down the attendance.

Jack Kearns, manager of Walker, announced that he was negotiating for a title match with Loughran.

SONS AND CAPS PLAY IN OPENER

City Championship Series at Royal Athletic Park To-morrow

The Sons of Canada and the Victoria Capitals will clash in the first tilt of the five-game play-off series for the city baseball championship and the A. E. Humphries Cup at the Royal Athletic Park to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock.

The team which takes three of the games will probably meet the winners of the Commercial League in another series.

McDUFFY

YESTERDAY WAS THE FIRST TIME DILL EVER PLAYED THIS COURSE—HE GOT UP ON THE FIRST TEE, MADE A VICIOUS LUNGE AT THE BALL AND MISSED IT ENTIRELY—HE TOOK ANOTHER SWIPE AT IT AND MISSED AGAIN—HE YERD THE BALL HIGHER, TOOK TWO MORE SWINGS AND NEVER TOUCHED THE PILL AT ALL—AFTER THE FOURTH SWING HE TURNED TO ME AND SAID "GOSH, MACK, THIS SURE IS A TOUGH COURSE!"

Very Much in the Swim --By Jimmie Thompson

When the swim is held to-morrow for the start of the marathon swimming race for women at the Canadian National Exhibition, you can bet that Miss Gertrude "Trudy" Ederle, famous daughter of a Brooklyn butcher and the first woman to successfully complete the English Channel swim, will be one of the big favorites of the day. Her preparations for this swim have been kept extremely quiet. The early part of her training was conducted in Hyannis, N.Y., but a couple of weeks previous to the swim she changed to Toronto to train in Lake Ontario. The main reason for Miss Ederle's secret training was that she wasn't sure she could stand the cold waters of Lake Ontario. Miss Hertle appears to be the only serious opponent of Trudy. Miss Hertle is depending on a great deal on her speed this year to carry her over the line a winner. Miss Ederle has not been surrounded by a host of managers, trainers, musicians and other forms of publicity. She has taken only short workouts in the lake each day and saved her strength for the supreme test in to-morrow's race.

Player Breaks Leg, Two Others Injured and Two Sent Off Field In Aston Villa-Manchester Game

London, Aug. 28 (Canadian Press Cable).—Great roughness marked the encounter between Aston Villa and Manchester United in an English League First Division soccer match yesterday. During the first half, Walker, Villa player twice required the attention of a doctor. Rawlings of Manchester, was also hurt on two occasions.

In the second half, McLenahan, Manchester, was carried off the field with a broken leg and the veteran Villa captain, Moss, who is alleged to have kicked him, was sent off the field by the referee. Later, after another mix-up, Hanson, one of the Manchesters, was put also out of the game. The match was played at Aston.

Only One Division In Soccer Will Operate

Victoria and District Football League Decides to Restrict Senior Soccer to Six Clubs In One Division; All Last Year's Clubs Enter and Garrison May Get Sixth Place; Joe Bloom President

No more than six senior clubs will be allowed to operate in Victoria this season, according to the decision reached at the annual meeting of the Victoria and District Football League last night.

There had been talk of operating a First and Second Division this season, with six teams in the former and four in the latter.

It was felt, however, that with ten clubs taking hold of the senior players there would not be sufficient talent to make them all contenders.

The First Division will comprise six teams and these will take care of all the senior talent and provide a better brand of football.

TO GET SIXTH CLUB
The five clubs in the First Division last year, Esquimalt, Saanich Thistles, Five C's, Victoria West and Victoria City, will re-enter, and a sixth club will be secured to round out the string.

It is likely that the Garrison will be favored with the sixth place. They are reported to have sufficient material for two good clubs. The Tillicums and Jokers are also said to be desirous of fielding senior teams.

Joe Bloom, for many years a stalwart in local football, was elected president of the league for the year. He thinks and lives football all through the winter, and as president of the league can be counted on working hard to put it over in big style.

CITY NEVER HAD CHANCE TO LAND MORGAN'S FIGHT

Vancouver Selected For Scrap on Labor Day Because of Many Advantages

Victoria Not Considered as Fighters Involved Were Too Expensive

Some one fell very heavily for the lingo that the Morgan-Carter fight might come to Victoria. A couple of days before the announcement was made in glaring headlines this morning that Victoria might get in on the ground floor, Vancouver had been tentatively agreed upon as the scene of the fight and yesterday morning final approval for the bout was given by the Vancouver Fight Commission.

Victoria never had an outside chance of getting the fight. Tod Morgan of Seattle, junior lightweight champion, is a little too high priced for town of this size. His opponent, Leslie "Wildcat" Carter, although not as expensive as a luxury as Morgan, is even a little too risky a bet for local promoters.

WILL BE FINE BOUT
The bout between Morgan and Carter should be whirlwind. Andy Lytle, sports editor of the Vancouver Sun, writing in his paper of yesterday, has the following to say of the bout: "Seattle's biggest fight show, the bout that had the customers stampeding the ticket windows in advance, is coming to Vancouver."

Tod Morgan, junior lightweight champion of the world, whose fight with Vic Foley drew the second largest crowd in the city's boxing history, will go ten rounds against Leslie "Wildcat" Carter at the arena on the evening of Labor Day and if you, Mr. Fight Fan, don't like that setup then, indeed, you are a trifle tricky about your cauliflowerers.

The show is to be promoted by Guy Patrick, manager of the Vancouver Arena company. The formality of securing the official dual o.k. was completed with in the offices of Commission Secretary Charles Jones.

OPPOSITION TO BOUT
When word came that the original promoters of the show, Biddy Bishop and Lonnie Austin, had cancelled it, local fighters, fielding in excellent condition, and Manager Joe Bayley is nursing him along so that he will enter the ring on Saturday evening with his hands in good shape so that he can tear into the clever sailor from the top of the gong.

THISTLES WILL MEET
The Saanich Thistles Football Club will meet at the Veterans of France tomorrow at 8 o'clock. All of last year's players and any others interested are asked to attend.

HOW THEY STAND
The Qualicum Beach Golf Tournament Over Week-end

The Qualicum Beach Hotel is holding its annual Labor Day Tournament from August 31 to September 3. Over $100 in prizes will be played for under the same conditions as last year.

The competition will be as follows: Best scores for nine holes during the four days. Golfers may enter as often as they like. The full handicap up to eighteen for men, and twenty-eight for ladies, will be allowed. The competition is open to members of the Qualicum Beach Golf Club, their private guests and guests of the Qualicum Beach Hotel.

By the number of reservations now pouring into the hotel the tournament bids fair to be the best ever staged. One party of eighteen is coming from Seattle, with many smaller parties from Vancouver and Victoria.

The greens are in beautiful shape, and have received great praise this year from everyone playing on them.

Patterson Goes Up With Hawkes In U.S. Tennis

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 28.—Gerald Patterson and Jack Hawkes of Australia, advanced to the second round of the forty-seventh national doubles tennis tournament by easily disposing of Malcolm Hill and Henry Johnson of the New England champions, 6-1, 6-4, 6-2, here yesterday on the courts at the Longwood Cricket Club.

The Australians drew John Doe and W. F. Coen Jr. for their second match when Bryn Gordan and Malon Courts defaulted. The second Australian pair Rochester and Southern, champions, 6-1, 6-1, 6-0.

The first of the foreign thrusters to be eliminated were Christian Bousset and Pierre Landry, one of the three French teams entered for the title. The Frenchmen bowed to the superior play of Johnny Ryn and Wilmer Allison, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3.

George M. Lott Jr. and John Hennessy of the American Davis Cup team eliminated R. H. Hyde and Amos Wilder, Hartford, Conn., teammates, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4.

R. Q. Cummings and E. F. Moon, another pair of Australians, defeated Louis Thalmeyer and James Quick from Dallas, Texas, 6-2, 7-5, 6-4.

Baseball Leaders Can Take A Breath Without Endangering Positions

St. Louis Cardinals Take Game From Chicago Cubs, While Yankees Win Pair From Detroit and Put a Little More Daylight Between Themselves and Contenders; Pittsburgh Wins Thirty-six of Their Last Fifty Games and Are Only Six and One-half Games Behind St. Louis Cardinals

The St. Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees at last can take time out for a breath without endangering their hold on the leadership position in the two major leagues. Bolstered by the return of Jim Bottomley, who totes a mighty powerful bat to the plate, the Cardinals have won four straight games, their last victory coming at the expense of the contending Chicago Cubs yesterday 11-3.

The Cardinals now lead the National procession by four games, but that advantage may dwindle considerably or disappear entirely during the next eighteen days when St. Louis opposition comes not only from the Cubs, but from the other two western contenders as well—the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Cincinnati Reds.

YANKS SLIP AWAY
While the Cardinals thus were consolidating their position at the top of the senior circuit, the Yankees were doing exactly the same thing in the American. A double-barrelled triumph over the Detroit Tigers sent the world's champions four full games ahead of the Athletics, who were forced to sit idle at Philadelphia and watch the rain drops patter down.

In the only other National League battle, the Pittsburgh Pirates downed the Cincinnati Reds in easy fashion, 9-4, and gained an even break in the two-day series and advanced to within one game of the Reds, who hold fourth place in the standings. The Cubs in turn, lead the Reds by only one game, and trail the second place Giants by half game. In other words, the Pirates, who have won thirty-six of their last fifty games, are in fifth place but only two and one-half games behind the Cardinals.

ZACHARY WINS FOR YANKS
The double triumph of the Yankees was featured by the first appearance of the veteran left-hander Tom Zachary in a Yankee uniform. Pitted against him in the opener was Earl Whitehill, another southpaw.

With better control Whitehill might have bested Zachary, but four walks in the fourth inning gave the champions two runs and put them in a position to win four to two, with one-run spurges in the sixth and eighth innings.

Piggas showed a return to form when he pitched the Yankees to a five to two victory in the night-cap. George gave eight scattered hits while the Champions bunched ten off Owen Carroll.

TWO FOR THE BROWNS
At Boston the St. Louis Browns beat the Red Sox twice, eight to six and four to nothing. The opener was a free-hitting battle while the Browns won by scoring seven runs in the sixth and seventh innings. Jack Ogden, formerly Baltimore's ace, held the Red Sox to four hits in the night-cap, while MacGowan was touched for nine.

George Uhle's effective pitching gave the Cleveland Indians a triumph over Washington five to three and an even break in the four-game series. Huston led to relieve Uhle in the ninth with two on and none out and got out of the difficulty by forcing Rice to line out and Goslin to hit into a double play.

Sixty-six Women In Marathon

Swimmers Ready For First Of Twin-bill At Toronto Tomorrow

Gertrude Ederle, Ethel Hertle and Millie Hudson are favorites for Ten-mile Swim; First Five Will Qualify for Men's Fifteen-mile Swim Next Week; Many Countries Represented in Race; Canada Will Have Five Strong Contenders. Who, However, Have Been in Few Competitions

Toronto, Aug. 28.—Trained to the minute, sixty-six women swimmers, among them some of the greatest in the world, eased off their work-outs yesterday and prepared for medical examination today which will precede their swimming in the first part of the double-barrelled Wrigley marathon at the Canadian National Exhibition Wednesday.

Although some forecast a "dark horse" will win, newspapermen "expecting" in the swim, select Gertrude Ederle, first woman to swim the English Channel, and Ethel Hertle, of New York, as their favorites.

RICH PRIZES AT STAKE

The women will compete over a ten-mile course in Lake Ontario off the Canadian National Exhibition sea-wall for a first prize of $10,000, four other prizes and the right to enter the fifteen-mile grind with the men of September 3. The five prize-winners will be the only female swimmers eligible for the second swim, first prize in which is $25,000. Should a woman win both events, she would, of course, receive $35,000 in prizes and the world's championship of both sexes.

The wisecracks of the swimming world predict that the women's race will be the most spectacular aquatic gambol in the history of this type of sport. For this prediction they offer three excellent reasons, namely, Gertrude Ederle, Ethel Hertle and England's English Channel star, Millie Hudson. All three are entered and there are several hundred of self-confessed experts willing to swear that each of them will win. Others think this proposition of stars makes it an excellent spot for a dark horse.

TWO THINGS CAN HAPPEN

"Only one of two things can happen," said the United States' famous feminine swimmer, "either I will win or I will lose. I can stand both."

Miss Ederle has been out of competitive swimming for years, even before she beat the Channel tides. Her return was a complete surprise and her arrival absolutely unheralded. She has really been racing since the day when she was winning Olympic honors.

With Gertrude is her coach and mentor, Margaret, her sister, as well as Margaret's twin daughters who will, it is said, be wheeled to the shore-line on the day of the race to add their whoops and gurgles to the cheering for their aunt.

LITTLE BUT GOOD

Millie Hudson is a diminutive marathoner who has not yet actually done the English Channel, but who is accomplishing the feat by only two miles. She was originally a South African aquatic star, but has recently been living in England.

There are two other women who will, it is said, be wheeled to the shore-line on the day of the race to add their whoops and gurgles to the cheering for their aunt.

REAL "FISH" ENTERS

The second United States woman Channel conqueror, Millie Gade Coran, the mother of two children, is a sure starter. So is the holder of the world's endurance record, Myrtle Ruddington, who wrecked existing marks a few weeks ago. It was reported at the time that the long immersion had undermined her physique, but she insists that she is in the best of condition for the Toronto battle.

The California endurance record-holder, Lella Fourrier, is also entered. So has the Swiss-American star, Martha Steger, who was one of the 1927 prize winners. Another outstanding Californian is Lorena Davidson of Long Beach. Lola Thomas, a member of the same swimming club as Mrs. Davidson, telephoned her entry from California an hour before the lists closed on August 15.

Capt. George Coran Jr., a Canadian coach now living in Denver, has brought a new feminine find for the race. She is Ruth Tower of Denver, tall and with beautiful red hair, who is a powerful swimmer.

Holland is sending Rie Butler, a swimmer whose abilities in fresh water races are little known here. There are also Lithuanian, German and Finnish women swimmers participating in the marine festival.

CANADA HAS THREE

Canada has five strong native contenders. There is the Finnish-Canadian "swimmer" of the 1927 swim, Beth Heden of Toronto; the Spanish-Canadian star from Ottawa, Helene Fernandez Garlini, who is being trained by George Young's coaches; the Canadian women's title-holder, Daisy King Shaw of Shawinigan Falls, Que.; the Winnipeg-trained marathoner, Mrs. Burrows, and the Ontario and Maritime Province record-holder, who was

Charlie Murray Overlooked in Vancouver Race and Pays $55.30 to Win

Results From Brighouse, Winnipeg and Arlington Tracks Show Good Races

Vancouver, Aug. 28.—Race goers were given a thrill at the opening meet of the last week at Brighouse yesterday when Charlie Murray, overlooked in the betting and allowed to go to post better than 25 to 1, topped the second race by a length and a half and returned $55.30 for each $2 straight bet.

The Vancouver claiming purse, fifth and feature event on the card, went to Red Banner, first public choice. Trivet was up on the winner and took his mount out in front, coming down the stretch to win in easy fashion.

The programme was witnessed by a large crowd, and exciting finishes and head stretch duels featured more than one event.

The results were as follows:

First race, six furlongs—1. Heather Leighton, $4.85, $2.40, $2.05, 2. Maurice Mulcahy, $5.20, $2.60, 3. Miss Berkeley, $3.20, Time, 1:14 4-5.

Second race, five furlongs—1. Charlie Murray, $55.30, $22.40, $18.15, 2. Miss Jennings, $15.25, $7.60, 3. Neroli, $11.00, Time, 1:01 2-5.

Third race, five furlongs—1. Jim Hogan, $7.10, $4.90, $3.55, 2. Mickey Hagen, $6.65, $4.05, 3. Bee Somers, $5.05, Time, 1:02 1-5.

Fourth race, six furlongs—1. Skootin, $8.25, $5.80, $4.40, 2. Brass Band, $3.65, $3.10, 3. Jimmie Trine, $4.90, Time, 1:14 4-5.

Fifth race, mile and seventy yards—1. Red Banner, $4.60, $3.05, $2.40, 2. Almgren, $3.10, $2.35, 3. Terrifier, $2.75, Time, 1:44 4-5.

Sixth race, five and a half furlongs—1. Montella, $10, $6.50, $3.65, 2. Golden Sweep, $14.85, $9.25, 3. War Bell, $2.80, Time, 1:07.

Seventh race, mile and a sixteenth—1. Chula Vista, $6.55, $4.15, $2.95, 2. Kid North, $5, $4, 3. Tennessee, $3.05, Time, 1:47 4-5.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—Results at the Arlington race track yesterday follow:

First race—Five and one-half furlongs: 1. Mary McGinn, $2.35, $1.60, $1.20, 2. Round Top, $1.15, $3.30, 3. Omarale, $2.80, Time, 1:04 4-5.

Second race—Six furlongs: 1. Miss Rose, $2.85, $1.70, $1.20, 2. Little Guinea, $4.40, $1.60, 3. Ada Adler, $1.40, Time, 1:12 1-5.

Third race—Five and one-sixteenth: 1. Old Bill, $2.75, $1.40, $1.10, 2. Fire Under, $7.50, $4.80, 3. Mammas, $2.70, Time, 1:07.

Fourth race—Six furlongs: 1. Polita, $20.00, $11.70, $7.40, 2. Domesticated, $4.80, $2.80, $1.60, 3. Volcan, $2.30, Time, 1:11 3-4.

Fifth race—Six furlongs: 1. Clyde Van Dusen, $11.50, $7.70, $4.40, 2. Double Heart, $2.80, $1.60, 3. Volcan, $2.30, Time, 1:11 3-4.

Sixth race—Six furlongs: 1. Gracious Gift, $16.25, $8.20, $4.80, 2. Buire, $11.25, $7.10, 3. Corvus, $3.50, Time, 1:13 1-5.

Seventh race—Five and one-sixteenth: 1. Baby Harkness, $12.80, $5.40, $3.20, 2. Rosetta Stone, $7.00, $3.20, 3. The Cosack, $2.20, Time, 1:51 3-4.

SOFTBALL

The Harlequin softball team took the first game of the finals for the city championship from the Royals by 18-6 at Central Park last night.

Play was fast until the sixth inning when the Harlequins started a batting rally which netted them nine runs. Greenwood, pitching for the losers, proved an easy mark for the winners, who batted his offerings all over the lot. "Bud" Hooking and Sweeney each succeeded in making homers with men on bases.

The second game will be played on the same grounds this evening at 8:15 o'clock.

Marigold and the Colwood Wood Company team struggled to an eight-all tie in a snappy game in the Westholme Hotel Cup final last night.

Since it is a short race as marathons go, ten miles, the race is apt to be fast and furious. Experts say it will certainly be fast. There has never before been a feminine contest of quite this sort, and there has never been a race with such a noteworthy array of fair luminaries.

WALKER SEEKS BATTLE WITH T. LOUGHRAN

Victory Over Armand in San Francisco Makes Middle-weight Champ Ambitious

Two Rights to Chin Finish Prominent Lighthweight in Seventh Round

San Francisco, Aug. 28.—The middleweight champion went hunting for bargains in the light heavyweight division and got what he wanted because that tremendous thump and thump heard last night in Recreation Park was Armand Emanuel, San Francisco, hitting the canvas for the full count in the seventh round of a scheduled ten-round bout.

With the spectacular attack that helped him win and head the welterweight and middleweight titles in turn, Mickey Walker punched Emanuel out of the 175-pound class, temporarily at least.

Two short right-handers did the trick. The first time it landed, Armand reeled on the canvas for nine seconds. He got up groggy, and during the next two rounds, Emanuel had a hard exchange in which he tried to regain ground, bumped into another right to the jaw that put him out for the count. Emanuel had to help him to his corner and he was dazed long after reaching his dressing-room.

FIRST KNOCKOUT

It was the first knockout ever chalked up against the twenty-two-year-old lawyer-boxer and his second defeat in more than thirty fights. A few months ago he gave Tommy Loughran a great battle, losing a close decision.

The first four rounds were tabulated in favor of the middleweight champion, who ripped over enough lefts to the body to offset Emanuel's two-for-one blows to the face. On the short end of the battle, Armand rallied in the next two rounds. He carried the fight to Walker and piled up sufficient points to gain a margin in the sessions.

The seventh round opened faster than any of the previous rounds with Emanuel out in front, when Walker's right sailed over. It clipped the San Francisco fighter's head, and he staggered to his feet at the count of nine. Instead of sparring for time or going into a clinch, he rushed his lighter opponent and for a few seconds had the better of the milling. Walker waited for an opening, and as Armand bored in, drove over a right that sprawled his rival in the middle of the ring. Emanuel's head bounced up and the count of ten was only a formality by Referee Bobby Johnson.

FOG HURT ATTENDANCE

Approximately 20,000 persons paid around $20,000 to the bout. Foggy and cool weather held down the attendance.

Jack Kearns, manager of Walker, announced that he was negotiating for a title match with Loughran.

City Championship Series at Royal Athletic Park Tomorrow

The Sons of Canada and the Victoria Capital will clash in the first tilt of the five-game play-off series for the city baseball championship and the A. E. Humphries Cup at the Royal Athletic Park to-morrow evening at 8:15 o'clock.

The team which takes three of the games will probably meet the winners of the Commercial League in another series.

The five clubs in the First Division last year, Esquimalt, Saanich Thistles, Five C's, Victoria West and Victoria City, will re-enter, and a sixth club will be secured to round out the string. It is likely that the Garrison will be favored with the sixth place. They are reported to have sufficient material for two good clubs. Very Much in the Swim --By Jimmie Thompson

When the gun is fired to-morrow for the start of the marathon swimming race for women at the Canadian National Exhibition, you can bet that Miss Gertrude "Trudy" Ederle, famous daughter of a Brooklyn butcher and the first woman to successfully complete the English Channel swim, will be one of the big favorites of the day. Her preparations for this swim have been by a "hot" of managers, trainers, musicians and other forms of bathhouse. She has taken only short workouts in the lake each day and saved her strength for the supreme test in to-morrow's race.

OPPOSITION TO BOUT

"When word came that the original promoters of the show, Biddy Bishop and Lonnie Austin, had cancelled it owing to opposition having arisen over using the new civic auditorium, Tacoma, Portland and Vancouver put in bids at once."

Tacoma offered the high school stadium, which seats 40,000, and Portland tossed in their bid for the new arena. But the combination of racing, proximity, big indoor arena and the holiday worked too strongly in Vancouver's favor, and Guy Patrick was the successful applicant.

"We had positively sold out practically every good seat in the arena, but rather than force our fight, we simply threw up our hands and assured City Prosecutor Colvin, who was threatening to enjoin us, that we would not go on."

GOOD FIGHTS SUPPORT CARD

Preliminaries to Fielding-Lake Ten-round Bout Will Be Very Good

Joe Bayley announces that his complete programme of events for Saturday night's show at the Tillamook Club is as follows:

Four rounds, 140 lbs.—Charles Bradshaw, Victoria, vs. Stoker Worthington, H.M.S. Durban.

Four rounds, 122 lbs.—Danny Pastors, Victoria, vs. Able Seaman Johnson, H.M.S. Durban.

Four rounds, 118 lbs.—Able Davies, Victoria, vs. Ldg. Seaman Webster, H.M.S. Durban.

Ten rounds, main event, 130 lbs.—Tommy Fielding, Victoria, vs. Stoker Percy Lake, H.M.S. Durban.

Lake, according to reports emanating from Vancouver, is getting into superb condition, and his supporters look for a local fighter. Fielding is in excellent condition, and Manager Joe Bayley is sureing him along so that he will enter the ring on Saturday evening with his hands in good shape so that he can take into the clever sailor from the tap of the song.

FOXY PHANN

It's consoling to know that the fighters who give boxing a black eye generally get most of them

The Cardinals now lead the National procession by four games, but that advantage may dwindle considerably or disappear entirely during the next eighteen days when St. Louis opposition comes not only from the Cubs, but from the other two western contenders as well—the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Cincinnati Reds.

While the Cardinals this were consolidating their position at the top of the senior circuit, the Yankees were doing exactly the same thing in the American. A double-header triumph over the Detroit Tigers sent the world's champions four full games ahead of the Athletics who were forced to sit idle at Philadelphia and watch the main drops.

In the only other National League battle, the Pittsburgh Pirates downed the Cincinnati Reds in easy fashion, 9-4, and gained an even break in the two-day series and advanced to within one game of the Reds, who hold fourth place in the standings. The Cubs in turn, lead the Reds by only one game, and trail the second place Giants by half a game. In other words, the Pirates, who have won thirty-six of their last fifty games, are in fifth place but only two and one-half games behind the Giants and six and one-half games behind the Cardinals.

ZACHARY WINS FOR YANKS

The double triumph of the Yankees was featured by the first appearance of the veteran left-hander Tom Zachary in a Yankee uniform. Picked against him in the opener was Earl Whitehill, another southpaw.

With better control Whitehill might have pitched the Yankees to a 1-0 victory in the night-cap, but for four walks in the fourth inning gave the champions two runs and put them in a position to win four to two, with one-overrun in the sixth and eighth innings.

George Piggas showed a return to form when he pitched the Yanks to a 1-0 win in the day game. Piggas, who George gave eight scattered hits while the Champions bunched ten off Owen Carroll.

TWO FOR THE BROWNS

At Boston the St. Louis Browns beat the Red Sox twice, eight to six and four to nothing. The opener was a free-hitting battle while the Browns won by scoring seven runs in the sixth and seventh innings. Jack O'Connell, formerly Baltimore's ace, held the Red Sox to four hits in the night-cap, while MacFarland was touched for nine.

George Uhlen's effective pitching gave the Cleveland Indians a triumph over Washington five to three and an even break in the four-game series. Hudlin had to relieve Uhlen in the ninth with two on base and got out of the difficulty by forcing Rios to line out and Goslin to hit into a double play.

NINETY-SEVEN MEN TEST STILITY OF WORLD'S LARGEST PLANE—Here you see the largest aeroplane in the world, and if you don't believe it just count the men who are riding on its wings. Ninety-seven husky workmen are there and their combined weight failed to bend the rigid wings on the Rohrbach Romer, gliderplane now nearing completion in Germany. After making test flights, it will be put into trans-Atlantic service. But fuel or passengers the ship weighs twelve tons. It will carry a load of eight tons.

PORTLANDERS WIN
PRO-AMATEUR NH
Tacoma, Aug. 28.—Neil Chinn, professional, and Russell Smith, amateur, representing the Waverley Club of Portland, won the annual Pacific Northwest pro-amateur golf tournament here yesterday. They had a best ball score of 67 on the first round and 70 for the second for a total of 137.

Mortie Dutra, Tacoma Golf and Country Club pro, and Chuck Hunter, Washington state amateur champion, playing over their home course, scored 69-71—140 to take the second place. About fifty teams took part in the tournament.

CRICKET TITLE MAY BE SETTLED

Tillicums, By Winning Tomorrow, Can Take Possession of Mid-week Title

Last matches scheduled in the Wednesday Cricket League will be played to-morrow afternoon commencing at 2.30 o'clock. The matches will be as follows:

Five C's vs. Hudson's Bay, at Beacon Hill.

T.V. vs. Tillicums, at the Jubilee grounds.

By winning their match to-morrow the Tillicums can retain the championship, which they won last year. The T.V. eleven spoiled the Tillicums' chances a couple of weeks ago when they played one of their good games and won.

CAN CREATE TIE
If the Tillicums lose to-morrow and the Hudson's Bay dispose of the Five C's a tie for first place will be created between the two clubs. A win for the Five C's to-morrow and a second win in their postponed match would give the Five C's a tie with the Tillicums.

In order to save confusion the Tillicums propose to go out with their team at top strength and defeat the T.V.

The Five C's line-up for to-morrow is as follows: E. Butterworth, C. M. Galt, A. J. Darius, E. Cox, H. F. Hewitt, R. A. Wilcox, H. Cumberbatch, J. J. Payne, G. Payne, L. Vaughan and another.

MINTAKA BEATS BOYKIN IN RACE

Series For Star Yachts at Royal Victoria Yacht Club Is Interesting

In the third race of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club series for Star Yachts, Bennett's Mintaka succeeded in beating R. Blandy's Boykin after a closely contested race last Saturday.

R. Blandy's Genie was third and immediately after finishing had the misfortune to break her mast owing to the parting of a shroud.

This series is now in an interesting condition, Boykin having 8 points and Mintaka 7. Two more races remain to be sailed.

In the dinghy class there were four starters. Goldy's Fern was the winner, saving her time over Hotham's Puffin. Wallace and Edwards trailed behind the leaders but had a good race for third place, the former just beating his rival.

Helen Wills Is Again Net Queen Of United States

West Side Stadium, Forest Hills, N.Y., Aug. 28.—Helen Wills yesterday retained her national women's tennis championship, defeating Helen Jacobs 6-2, 6-1.

It took Miss Wills just thirty-three minutes to down her fellow Californian and "take the title" for the fifth time, adding it to the English and French championships which she has won already this year.

Ray Keech Wins Toronto Car Race

Toronto, Aug. 28.—Ray Keech of Philadelphia won the Canadian five-mile automobile championship for dirt tracks at the Canadian National Exhibition yesterday when he defeated Ralph de Palma by four car lengths in 4 minutes 28 seconds.

A NEW PICTURE OF GENE'S GIRL MARY—Here's the most recent portrait of Miss Mary Josephine Lauder, the future Mrs. James J. Tunney. A relative of the Carnegies, an heiress to millions of dollars made in steel, a social regisite and a Junior Leaguer, she also is famed for her accomplishments as a sportswoman. But if Mary were none of these, it's safe to say that her beauty would make her rather well known.

HORSE RACING

Winnipeg, Aug. 28.—With a brilliant finish, Jockey Wood brought Jack Lee's Fine Manners across the wire first today to capture the speed handicap and furnished the surprise of the Whittier Park Fall race meet yesterday. Fine Manners rewarded backers with odds of nearly nine to one.

Reforestation

Much has been said recently about reforestation in B.C. The present forest is the result of natural reforestation when the human hazard was not present to defeat nature.

Natural restocking of cut-over lands is now going on, as may be seen almost everywhere, and nature will again re-establish the forests if only fire is kept out.

Mayor's Offer To Give Paint For City Hall Is Taken Up

Painting of the City Hall will be undertaken as soon as possible. The City Council last night instructed Building Inspector James Bart to call tenders for the labor, to be passed upon by Mayor Pendergast and Aldermen Brown and Marchant.

When supporting this betterment plan Alderman Brown said: "We have not got the money, but we cannot afford to turn down the wonderful offer of Mayor Pendergast to donate the paint necessary."

YOUNG SEATTLE SINGER IS DEAD

Micaele de Caro Made
Operatic Debut Only This Spring

Seattle, Aug. 28.—Micaele de Caro, young Seattle tenor, who early last year made his triumphant debut with the Chicago Opera Company in this city, died yesterday of pneumonia.

Born in Calabria, Italy, thirty-two years ago, De Caro inherited the gift of some of those sunny slopes. His boyhood was one of figures and work. He attended the Coleman school here, excelling as a mathematician.

WENT TO WORK
He went to work as a bookkeeper in the Seattle National Bank, but the urge of music was stirring and the bank clerk's salary was jealously guarded for singing lessons.

One day, eight years ago, De Caro sang—a rough, robust tenor—at a benefit musicale. Mrs. Frederick W. Bentley, Seattle music patron, heard him. Prophetically, she exclaimed, "That boy has a voice."

SOCIETY WOMAN'S PROTEGE
She interested Mrs. D. E. Skinner, Mrs. A. H. Henderson and other cultural leaders in the young singer. Through their efforts he was enabled to sail for the land of his fathers—Italy—where he studied for four years. Then for three years he was in opera in Italy, France and Switzerland.

TRIUMPH IN "AIDA"
Last March, after seven years abroad, he made his American debut with Chicago Civic Opera Company in Seattle. No home town boy ever received a greater ovation.

His great voice is hushed, but De Caro's part in "Aida" lingers on in the memory of many Seattle folks.

After the opera De Caro was slightly weary. Following the excitement of the debut and a round of entertaining, he sought rest and relaxation. He had enjoyed leisure but a few brief weeks when stricken with pneumonia. One operation followed another, but without avail, and the end came yesterday morning.

CITY'S THANKS
GIVEN MEARNS
Marked Success of Exhibition Earns Manager Civic
Thanks

Secretary W. H. Mearns, of the British Columbia Agricultural Association, was last night tendered the formal thanks of the City Council for the Exhibition just closed at the Willows.

Alderman H. O. Litchfield moved that the Council record its high appreciation of the untiring work of Mearns, through many months, which had resulted in the splendid success marking this year's exhibition.

Alderman F. R. Brown paid tribute to the excellent leadership displayed by Mr. Mearns and declared that his efforts were greatly appreciated by all the citizens of Victoria.

The motion of appreciation was passed amid a chorus of approving comment.

ESQUIMALT ADDS TO FIRE SERVICE
Four New Hydrants to Be Installed; Arterial By-law Passes

Further protection from fire has been arranged for the municipality of Esquimalt through four new fire hydrants to be installed shortly. The municipal council, in session last night, endorsed the action of the fire department in arranging for the new equipment.

The new hydrants will be installed at the intersection of Drake Street and Old Esquimalt Road, at Greenwood and Fraser Streets, at Greenwood and Lampson Streets and on Esquimalt Road near the Pooley home.

The amendment to the streets and traffic by-law providing for the naming of Esquimalt Road, from the city limits to its terminus, as an arterial highway passed the council and will go into force. A letter was read from the B.C. Safety League congratulating the council on its adoption of this traffic safety policy.

Reeve James Elrick and Councillor S. A. Pomeroy were named delegates to the Good Roads League convention at Trail on September 11. They will attend the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention at the same time.

In connection with the proposal to establish a football field on Lyall Street, near the Hillcrest tennis courts, the council decided to communicate with the Hudson's Bay Company land department to ascertain if it were willing to exchange one lot on this property for property of equal value in another part of the municipality. The "Playing Field" Association has already arranged to buy one lot and this transfer is needed to make an area suitable for the purposes proposed.

A donation of $25 to the City Temple Band for their services in playing in the Memorial Park was approved, on motion by Councillor Cox.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The executive of the Victoria City Police Club will hold a meeting in the Veterans of France quarters at 7:30 to-night.

Peter Lanchick was discharged in City Police Court this morning on a charge of driving to the common danger.

Brian Neary was fined $5 in City Police Court today for failing to produce his driver's license upon request of a police officer.

Alderman F. E. Brown was last night named by the City Council as Acting Mayor during the absence of Mayor Carl Pandey from the city.

A charge against Wesley Strickland of failing to display his chauffeur's license while in charge of a tallyho was dismissed in City Police Court this morning.

The City Council last night purchased from the Royal Financial Corporation $1,000 Victoria city debentures bearing 4½ per cent interest, maturing 1932, on a five per cent basis.

At an executive committee meeting of the Victoria male choir last evening it was decided to hold the first rehearsal of the season on Wednesday, September 5, at City Temple Hall, North Park Street, at 8 p.m.

The City Council last night approved donations of $250 to the Salvation Army and $50 to the Victoria Amateur Swimming Association, the latter being the aid of the annual school children's gala at the Crystal Garden.

The City Council last night ordered immediate removal of forty-four buildings reported as beyond repair. Ten buildings were to be repaired, and the remainder within sixty days and one building must be renovated or removed within six months.

The City Treasury yesterday took in $11,867.43, chiefly advance payments on taxes. On Friday afternoon the city will receive $100,000 in interest on prepaid taxes, and after September 29 will add a penalty of eight per cent to unpaid tax bills.

William Crothall, of 1277 Fairfield Road this morning took out a building permit for a residence addition to his store. The building will be of two stories of frame stucco, and will cost $3,700. J. C. Keith is the architect, and D. Burnett is the contractor.

The City Council last night voted $150 for entertainment of the Old Country public school boys party now touring Canada, when they arrive in Victoria on Thursday. The civic programme tentatively arranged includes a celebration at the Crystal Garden and a picnic at Goldstream Falls.

Joint employment by Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt, of a full time municipal inspector of schools was last night discussed at a private meeting of the three school boards, held in the offices of the Canadian Legion, Pro Patria Branch. The meeting was attended by Trustees E. M. McCann, of Oak Bay; Trustees Lockley and Hadley of Esquimalt, and all members of the Saanich Board. No agreement was achieved.

J. L. Forrester last night protested to the City Council against imposition of 8 per cent penalty on taxes unpaid by September 30. He objected that the impost was unduly severe upon the class of taxpayers who are most in need of assistance. The letter will be laid before the Union of British Columbia Municipalities convention at Trail by Victoria City delegates. Aldermen recalled that the question of tax penalties had been a feature subject of debate at the Union Convention for many years.

Continuing his series of addresses, Dr. Arthur I. Brown last night discussed the "Genesis and Modern Science" before a large audience in the A.O.F. Hall on Commercial Street, in closing Dr. Brown stated that not evolution but regeneration was the law of nature, and in an eloquent peroration, developed this point. To-night the subject is "The Wonder Book of the Ages," in which he promises to present many marvelous scientific references in the Bible.

Preparations are complete for the meeting of the Victoria College Alumni Association which is to be held at the college at 8 o'clock this evening. The alumni have passed successfully through its first year, having been instrumental in bringing Dr. Sedgewick to Victoria to lecture on "A Glimpse at the Philosophy of Shakespeare," and also in sponsoring a drive for funds to place a bronze bust of Dr. E. B. Paul in Victoria College. To-night a new executive will be elected to carry on similar work next year, and plans for the coming season will be discussed. The meeting will be a pleasant reunion of former classmates, and it is hoped that a large number of ex-students will attend.

Sports for Labor Day Picnic to be held at Willow Beach on Monday, will be as follows: Girls' race, thirty-five yard handicap, seven years and under; girls' race, fifty yard handicap, twelve years and under; girls' race, seventy-five yard handicap, fifteen years and under; boys' race, fifty yard handicap, seven years and under; boys' race, seventy-five yard handicap, twelve years and under; boys' race, fifty yard handicap, fifteen years and under; ladies' race, twenty yards and under; married ladies' race, twenty yards and under; girls' sack race; boys' sack race; thread and needle race; wheelbarrow race, mixed; ball driving contest, ladies; egg and spoon race, throwing soft ball, ladies; throwing hard ball, men; native Sons of Canada, men over fifty years; inner tube race, ladies; cigarette race. A tug of war will take place between teams of Native Sons captained by Alex Montague and A. Pike. The sports will start at 1:45 p.m.

In the evening, a dance will be held at the Sons of Canada Hall, where an orchestra will be in attendance and a Whippet Coach will be given away. The events are in aid of the Playground Fund.

Disorderly House Hearing Adjourned

Following the hearing of prosecution evidence and of the accused, the case against Leona Lee, charged with keeping a disorderly house, was remanded in city police court today until to-morrow morning.

Sgt. Thomas Heatley and Constable Thomas Stevenson gave evidence for the Crown, telling of visiting the Occidental Hotel at 5:45 a.m. Sunday and the subsequent arrest of the accused and five other persons on the premises. John Moore of Cliffside, told of visiting the place on the night in question. Leona Lee was on the witness stand for over an hour, giving evidence as to the ownership of the premises and the conduct of the rooms.

The case was adjourned with several defence witnesses to be heard. John Moore pleaded guilty to a charge of being found in a disorderly house, the same premises, and was fined $25.

Belle Young, Billie Black, Alfred Alexander and Yong, Chinese, face similar charges, all pleading not guilty. Stuart Henderson appeared for the five accused.

Bobby Jones Is Giving Old Man Par Bad Beating

Chicago, Aug. 28.—Bobby Jones, the wizard from Atlanta, Ga., has handed "Old Man Par" probably the worst licking he has ever received.

In three successive 18-hole rounds over the "Long Chicago" golf club course where he is practicing for the Walker Cup matches this week, Jones has averaged just 67½ strokes, or a total of 203 strokes, which for 54 holes carried a total par of 215.

Professor Mack Eastman Interviews Government Heads During Stay

Professor Mack Eastman, chief of the research division of the International Labor Office of the League of Nations, arrived here this morning from Vancouver on a tour of Canada in connection with international labor matters.

Professor Eastman was welcomed by A. S. Averill, secretary of the local branch of the League of Nations Society. He interviewed Premier Tolmie and other Ministers this morning and was entertained at luncheon at the Union Club by the executive of the local branch of the League of Nations Society. Professor Eastman answered several questions with reference to international problems, among other points, the significance of the Kellogg Treaty.

Prof. Eastman left on the afternoon train for Vancouver. He will speak at the city on Sunday and will speak at the evening service of the First United Church.

LUMBER FIRM EXTENDS PLANT

Lemon Gonnason Co. Buy Valuable Norris Estate Waterfront Property

Old-timers will recall the site of the Old Norris Tannery, situated within a block of Government Street on Bay Street. More than thirty years ago the tannery used to be one of the best of the Victoria industries. Later the tannery was converted into a glove factory. For years the property remained idle, the buildings almost remaining as mute evidence of the old-time activity.

The property acquired by the new purchaser comprises 191 feet on Bay Street and approximately 200 feet of waterfront. It has been stated that in past years an offer of $45,000 was rejected for this property. With the strategically situated site, the new owners have now rounded out their real estate programme. Ready access to the waterfront permits the firm to expand its operations for the economical handling of an ever-increasing foreign demand for their doors, sashes and other products. What will be recalled by the old-timers as soon as possible for this purpose.

The deal was negotiated by G. Brady of Gillespie, Hart & Todd Limited.

FROM MODERN PLANT

The great growth of Lemon Gonnason Co. of Victoria, B.C., can be pointed to as an example of the opportunities this city offers to persons with faith in it, and who are inspired with determination to succeed. From the modest little plant, financed in a meagre way by the founders of the company, gradually it has grown until today it is recognized as one of the dominant factors in the industry in British Columbia. The payroll shows something more than 150 persons permanently employed, and extensive operations include saw mills, a planing mill, a box factory, a sash and door factory, numerous large storage warehouses, wharves and many acres of land which are required for lumber seasoning purposes. The scope of the business has been expanded to include under separate departments shingles, hardwoods, boat lumber, roofing, flooring, window glass, boxes, wall board and fuel.

Lemon Gonnason products have been shipped to England, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa. In Canada, before 1928 has closed, something like 200 carloads of woodwork will have been shipped from their plant to various parts of the Dominion.

EXTENSIVE HOLDINGS

The holdings of the company now include timber limits containing one of the finest stands of Douglas fir which will be recalled, were chased outright last year from American interests. This timber is located at Nootka Sound, approximately 250 miles north of Victoria on Vancouver Island.

Notwithstanding its remarkable progress the capital structure remains almost identical with that with which it was incorporated. All the shares are held by members of the company, and for this reason they have always been able to dictate policies which appeared to be the best interests of the company free from outside influence. Except for current purchases, the company is entirely without obligations, and the extensive fixed assets are almost entirely local.

Of continually increasing importance to the business is the investment department. This department has come into being in later years, due to the need for close supervision over the company's extensive outside financial interests.

The net earnings in July last were $1,450,505.331, which compares with $1,037,007.10 in the similar seven-month period of 1927, an increase during the current year of $11,468,323.26, equivalent to 8.49 per cent.

In the seven months of the present year the working expenses amounted to $123,016,507.58, as against $116,836,789.73 in the first seven months of 1927.

The net earnings in the first seven months of 1928 amounted to $23,488,323.12, which compares with $17,200,218.01 for the similar seven-month period of 1927, an increase of $5,288,105.11, or 29.06 per cent.

The operating ratio for the first seven months of the current year was reduced to 83.97 per cent from 86.52 per cent in the similar period of 1927.

ASSAULT CASE TO CONTINUE ON THURSDAY

F. F. Fletcher to Answer Charge of Attempted Murder

A further remand was granted by Magistrate George Jay this morning in the case of Freeman F. Fletcher, colored, charged with attempted murder. The case will proceed on Thursday morning, when William Manning, said by police to be the victim of Fletcher's alleged assault on the deck of the Princess Adelaide, will appear as Crown witness. Several witnesses of the alleged affray between Fletcher and Manning will also be brought from Vancouver.

Fletcher has not yet secured counsel, but stated he had made arrangements to have someone defend him.

BARRISTERS TALK OF NEW METHODS

Proposed Changes Debated at Canada-wide Conference in Regina

Regina, Aug. 28.—With representatives from the province and every province of Canada, the second conference of the governing bodies of the legal profession in Canada was opened here this morning under the chairmanship of Sir James Aikins, K.C., Winnipeg, president.

The proceedings opened with a welcome from the province and city of Regina by H. J. Schulz, K.C., president of the Saskatchewan Law Society, to which Sir James briefly replied.

ENCROACHMENTS DEBATED

Reporting on behalf of the committee on encroachments on the lawyers' sphere of activities, W. E. Burns, Vancouver, declared the present situation was very unsatisfactory from the standpoint of the public and members of the legal profession alike. Of the causes which had contributed to this unsatisfactory situation, according to the report, not a few were attributable to the legal profession itself.

The report added: "It is alleged that in dealing with its public, the legal profession has not kept abreast with the developments of modern business, its methods and ramifications. That in respect to its bill of costs and charges, speaking generally, it has not adapted itself to a line of dealing more understandable and acceptable. It is alleged that individual members of the profession to an extent not inconsiderable associate themselves in a business way with the predatory practices and thus lend strength to the poachers."

DISCIPLINARY MEASURES

"It is further alleged that disciplinary measures are not established and applied as drastically and as expeditiously as the public is entitled to expect. The dealings of the profession with the public."

FIVE HELD ON THEFT CHARGES

Men Taken in New Westminster Accused of Crimes in Vancouver

Vancouver, Aug. 26.—Five men, alleged by police to be responsible for many Vancouver robberies, were arrested by Vancouver and New Westminster police yesterday afternoon and last evening at the Highway Garage, Columbia Avenue and Eleventh Street, New Westminster.

Hundreds of dollars' worth of haberdashery and clothing, some of it already identified as having been stolen in Vancouver, was found under the rear bench garage and in other places of concealment.

At 5:30 three Vancouver officers arrested Ed J. Dubell, Keefe Street, and three New Westminster men, one by one as they entered the place. These were Babe Cardacelli, Eighteenth Avenue East; Fred Wilson, 305 Angus Campus, Hastings Street East, and Charles Beale, Hastings Street East.

All the arrested men are alleged to have been wearing stolen suits of clothes.

Men's furnishings valued at $450 were stolen by thieves who broke into the home of Mrs. A. Moore, 215 Cambie Street, on Sunday.

OBITUARY

The funeral of the late Simon John who passed away last Tuesday took place yesterday morning. The cortege proceeded from the Thomson Funeral Home, 1625 Quadra Street, at 9 o'clock to the Roman Catholic Church at Sooke, where mass was said by the Rev. Father A. B. Wood at 10 o'clock. The church was filled with relatives and sympathizing friends, and beautiful floral tributes covered the casket and hearse. J. Silver, D. Fallard and G. Barker, A. Albany, C. Fletcher and M. Cooper acted as pallbearers. The remains were laid to rest in the cemetery at Sooke.

The funeral of the late Captain Albert E. Harrison was held on Monday afternoon from St. John's Church, the service being conducted by Rev. F. A. P. Chisholm. The hymns "O God, Our Help in Ages Past" and "Lead, Kindly Light," we sung, the organist, G. Jennings Burnett, presiding at the organ. The service was followed by a luncheon by members of Britannia Lodge, A.F. and A.M., the late Captain Harrison being a member of Perfecting Lodge, No. 5, Calgary. The hymns "O God, Our Help in Ages Past" and "Lead, Kindly Light," we sung, the organist, G. Jennings Burnett, presiding at the organ. PROGRESS OF SHANGHAI IS TOLD KIWANIS

G. M. Billings Reviews Development of Great Chinese City

The remarkable development of Shanghai, China, since 1924, when it was established as one of five treaty ports, was the subject of an interesting address by G. M. Billings before the Kiwanis Club at the Empress Hotel this afternoon.

Mr. Billings resided in Shanghai for some years as principal of a large European boys' school. He recalled that at first Shanghai had been controlled by the British Consul, later a committee of centers from the Crown took over direction, and to-day the executive committee consists of six British, two American and one Japanese, elected by the ratepayers but responsible to the consular body, which in turn is responsible to the diplomatic corps at Peking. This arrangement disposed of the Chinese claim that foreigners have no right at Shanghai, their presence being due to treaty and having accomplished much for the advancement of China, Mr. Billings said.

Mr. Billings reviewed the remarkable variety of affairs controlled by the Shanghai Council. A strong militia force of well-drilled volunteers is maintained, armed with artillery machine guns and other modern equipment, and organized by a paid permanent staff, he said. The fire department has attended over 600 calls yearly, and costs $276,000 for maintenance. The police force costs nearly $2,000,000 annually with over 2,000 men, including 374 white officers.

LARGE PROFIT

Illustrating the careful business management of civic affairs, Mr. Billings showed that the Shanghai municipal electrical plant, worth $21,000,000, earns a profit of $2,500,000 yearly on a gross revenue of $4,500,000.

Amicable relations existing between the various European nations in Shanghai is notable, Mr. Billings declared. He recalled that during the Great War German volunteers had aligned themselves with his British command when danger threatened and had "played the game."

Great changes have taken place in the type of white men resident in Shanghai, he stated. Up to twenty years ago the whites were all "tailors," men destined to become heads of concerns. For every white then in Shanghai there are now a thousand. Standards have fallen and the Chinese are not unwise to the fact, and no longer look upon whites as men of a special sort. Mr. Billings considered the whites have only themselves to blame, having exploited their position to work for pay as low as 20 cents a day, and grown rich on enormous dividends.

Clayton Rychar, baritone, and Mrs. Clayton Rychar, violinist, of Aberdeen, Wash., entertained with numbers. President Watkins stated the guests had been feature artists of the recent Northwestern District Convention at Aberdeen.

TREATY IS NEW FORCE IN WORLD

"So it is in peace," Lord Cushenden said, adding: "No one imagines the signing of this treaty will immediately and finally banish war from the face of the earth. That would be a miracle."

"Possibly there will still be small wars somewhere on the earth, but do not let the cynics discourage us, because the moral value of the pact is in the main, and that is the real value of this treaty."

Lord Cushenden said that personally he divided the credit for the negotiation of the treaty between Foreign Minister Briand of France and Secretary of State Kellogg of the United States, but the real credit, he said, was due to the activities of the last few years in favor of peace and claimed for the British Foreign Secretary as much credit as anyone else in the crusade against war.

LEAGUE APPROVES

Geneva, Aug. 28.—Because the pact makes for peace and by increasing the sense of international security constitutes a practical incentive to reduction of armaments, the signing of the Anti-war Treaty in Paris yesterday is a cause of rejoicing in League of Nations circles.

Although the United States has taken the precaution to point out that its adherence to the pact involves no future commitments concerning conflicts in any part of the world, League officials express the opinion that consummation of the agreement certainly creates a moral interest and some responsibility for the United States in the maintenance of peace.

Concretely, officials believe the United States would be so disturbed and even incensed over any nation aggressively breaking the anti-war pledge that it would refuse to permit food and munitions to be shipped to the war-making country. Automatically a violator of the pact, it is pointed out, would fall into the grip of the punitive machinery of the League's covenant. This is so because the treaty signatories are members of the League.

Tokio, Aug. 28.—"The Renunciation of War Treaty marks the dawn of a new day," said Baron Gichi Tanaka, Premier of Japan. In a statement on the signing of the pact in Paris yesterday, "Japan halts that dawn and she rejoices in the prospect of an age of continuous peace," the Premier declared.

"The treaty will ever mark an epoch in history. It will stand as the portal to an era wherein it is officially proclaimed that war is unworthy of civilized man."

Union Issues Programme For Trail Meeting

Hon. S. F. Tolmie, Premier of British Columbia, will be the principal speaker at the opening session of the convention of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities, to be held at Trail on Wednesday, September 12.

The business discussion will be delayed until the afternoon, the morning being devoted to a tour through the Trail smelter, the largest plant of the kind in the British Empire.

The Good Roads League convention on Tuesday will be addressed by the new Minister of Public Works, Hon. N. S. Loughheed.

A Romance of the Royal Air Force
By ROLLO VILLIERS

(The characters in this story are entirely imaginary, and no reference to living persons is intended.)

"Come at once—Yvonne." To the signature was added an address at Brighton.

He read it through and tried hard to puzzle out from the short message the need behind such urgency—need there must be, for he had only just received a letter from her that morning.

What could this message mean? Deane called his friend Davies over and showed him the wire.

"Look, old man," he said, "I shall have to go. I'd never fall Yvonne if she needed me, and this looks pretty urgent."

"Yes, I'd go if I were you," advised Davies. "It'll be all right. Anyway if you can get back to-night I'll be all right. I'm going to stick a knoberry in my pocket and the first guy that comes along and tries to pinch those plans will bite the dust."

Davies grinned. He was glorying in the thought of getting such a heavenly opportunity to pay back, in one sharp blow, many old scores.

"Oh, don't you worry about that, Davies. Unless it's extremely pressing, I'll be back on the last train, and they won't start any burglary until after midnight," Deane promised.

Deane secured official leave to go to Brighton without any difficulty. Thereafter, the initial excitement over, he suffered from the reaction consequent upon sitting idly in the train with only his own thoughts for company.

Yvonne must be ill; she must be dying, or perhaps she had met with an accident.

Good Lord! Supposing Morton-Strangways had developed some devilish scheme against the girl, as he had against Deane? How the time seemed to hang suspended! What an abominable train service, he thought. Perhaps the engine driver would like to get out and have a drink on the way.

Deane laughed. What did these people care? His Yvonne might be in danger, and they dangled about at a snail's pace.

At last the rattling coaches steamed into the station, and Deane, hardly able to restrain his eagerness, dashed down the platform and out of the barrier.

There was no Yvonne waiting for Deane, so, without any further waste of time, he went out of the station and made his way to the house where she was staying.

Mrs. Mowbray met him at the door. "Good afternoon," she said. "I expect, it's Mr. Deane, isn't it?"

"Yes, that's right," assented Deane. "I believe Miss Dubois is rather expecting me, isn't she?"

"Was expecting you," replied Yvonne's friend rather mysteriously. "However, if you will come inside I'll try and explain matters to you."

Deane looked at his astonishment. What was the woman raving about? She would explain! Yvonne had sent for him. Why couldn't she explain?

You'd get up to town by early evening," he informed him.

"All right, I'll go by that," he decided. "As soon as I've found her I'll drop you a postcard to relieve your mind."

"Yes, do, because I'll be fearfully worried until I do hear," replied Mrs. Mowbray.

Early evening found Deane at the reception desk of the Charing Cross Hotel, after a trying journey and a narrow escape from the vigilance of the Military Police, for he had no permission to visit London. But his difficulties and trials were now crowned by the news that Yvonne was not staying at the hotel.

Deane wanted to protest, he wanted to argue with clerk in his first astonishment. Then he realized the futility of such a course. This was just part and parcel of the astounding events of the day. It was, of course, surprising that she should propose to stay at a London hotel in this wise. But facts were facts. Yvonne had said in her note the Charing Cross Hotel, and here Deane would wait. Perhaps, she was in the lounge waiting for him.

Deane sat on, in increasing anxiety, until midnight struck. Then he made a final application to the clerk at the desk.

"No, sir," the clerk answered him patiently. "I'm afraid your friend is not here, nor has she applied for a room."

Deane turned away and passed out of the hotel into the fast-emptying street. His mind was in a whirl, and he felt robbed of the power of collected thought.

Anyhow it was too late now to return to Xanadu or Hastings, so he turned down a side street toward the Embankment.

As the chill of night crept up from the river, Deane sat down on one of the seats that house so many homeless outcasts. The lack of permission to be in London, and the chance that the police might demand his pass now mattered nothing to him.

"Gawd, ain't it cold, mate?" volunteered a man huddled up at the further corner of the seat.

"Is it?" queried Deane, almost automatically. He almost laughed at the thought of a man worrying over the cold when there were such things as the disappearance of Yvonne to unravel.

"You ain't got a fag, 'ave yer?" his companion asked, at length.

Deane took out his cigarette case and handed the man the contents.

"Gawd bless you, sergeant," the man thanked him, touched by the unexpected response. "I'll go and see my mate. 'E'll be along 'ere somewhere, 'ave I know as he ain't got no fags, so long!"

"Good night!" replied Deane, thankful to be left alone with his misery. The lights upon the waters of the Thames were dancing like fairies of the dark, bright and cold. Big Ben clanged out one o'clock. Beyond an occasional taxi rushing through the night, and the shuffle of tired feet along the pavement, the Embankment world was settling down to sleep.

Deane shivered unconsciously. Had he had a care-free mind he might have slept, despite of the cold, but the pain of anxiety kept every faculty alert.

As he heard the light patter of feet coming along the pavement, he turned his head.

A girl was approaching. What was she doing out at this time of the night, he wondered.

She came, as she passed beneath the light of an arc lamp. In front of him she stopped by the parapet and looked down at the shivering waters below. It was very apparent that she had not seen Deane crouched in one corner of the seat. His interest was now fully aroused.

The girl looked furtively along the pavement, first to the left and then to the right, laying her two hands upon the parapet as if to draw herself up.

Deane coughed, and she swung round to face him.

"Oh, what a shock you gave me!" she said in a startled voice.

"I'm sorry," Deane apologized. "But I realized you thought you were alone, and so I made my presence known to you."

"They stood silent for a moment in the first embarrassment consequent upon such a strange meeting."

"It's a very unusual hour to take a promenade," exclaimed Deane. He realized, only too well, what intentions the girl had had in her mind, when she stood looking down into the waters. His own troubles ceased for the moment in this new drama of life and death.

Uncle Wiggily's Queer Flowers

(Copyright, 1928, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

By HOWARD R. GARIS

"Don't you want that any more, Mrs. Twistytail?" asked Uncle Wiggily as he stopped hopping in front of the stye house where the fat pig lady and gentleman lived. Only just now Mr. Twistytail was down at the brook, teaching Curly, Floppy and Squeaky Squawker how to swim.

"Don't I want what?" grunted Mrs. Twistytail in surprise, leaning out of her window and looking at Mr. Longears.

"Don't you want that?" Uncle Wiggily pointed to something the pig lady had tossed to the path. It was something red, pink, blue, yellow and purple and these colors were flowers.

"That old hat of mine? Do I want that?" grunted Mrs. Twistytail, laughing. "Indeed and I don't! I just threw it away for the sack cart."

"Then I'll take it," said Uncle Wiggily, picking up the hat.

"Dear me!" grunted the pig lady. "What in the world are you going to do with an old hat that I'm throwing away?"

"Isn't the hat I want so much as I do the cloth flowers on it," said Mr. Longears. "Those are artificial cloth flowers, aren't they?"

"Oh, yes," was the grunting answer. "I always like plenty of flowers on my hats and this time I bought plenty. But the hat has gone out of style, so I threw it away."

"The flowers are still good," said Uncle Wiggily.

Uncle Wiggily, and he pulled the bunch off Mrs. Twistytail's old hat and held the magic believe blossoms to his pink, twinkling nose.

"There's no smell to them!" laughed the pig lady.

"I've found that out," Uncle Wiggily answered. "But I can buy a bottle of perfume in the eight and nine cent store."

"Dear me, Uncle Wiggily! This is very strange," cried the pig lady. "What in the world do you mean by pulling cloth flowers off my old hat and talking about sprinkling perfume on them to make them smell sweet? What's the idea?"

"The idea is to make a magic garden for Old Toad in place of the weeds he has to look at all day long," was the reply. "To-night after dark, I am going to fasten sprays of these artificial flowers on the pigweed, ragweed, burdock and plantain that grow in what Old Toad calls his garden. He makes believe it has in it roses and violets and honeysuckle. But it is only pretense. Now he shall look out on some real colored flowers and they will scent the air for him. He need never know they are only make believe artificial cloth flowers off an old hat, perfume from the eight and nine-cent store."

"Oh, he'll find out about it soon enough," grunted Mrs. Twistytail. "No, I think not," said Uncle Wiggily, twinkling his eyes as well as his pink nose. "You see Old Toad can no longer hop about. He has to sit in a lump, perched on a sort of bouncing swing I made for him and he can only look in his garden. Of course green is a lovely color, but when I put in the red, blue, yellow, purple and pink flowers it will really be a magic garden."

"How kind you are," murmured the pig lady.

That night, when it was still and quiet in Woodland, Uncle Wiggily went to the patch of weeds which poor Old Toad called his garden. Working quiet-

Book of Knowledge

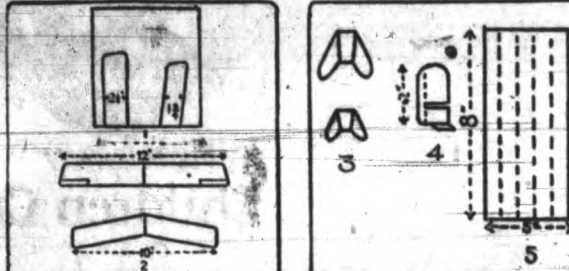

Sketches by Henry.
Synopsis by Branton.

MODEL GLIDERS

Take a thin piece of cardboard or stiff paper about one foot long and nine inches wide and fold it across the middle. Then draw the outline of half the glider as indicated by the dotted line. Keeping the card folded, cut out the shape. Make cuts for the ailerons and fix a paper-fastener to the nose as a weight.

By H.E. through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright, 1922-24.

Here are part of the materials for a more advanced type. Figure 1 is the cardboard folded double, with measurements of the two wings. Figure 2 shows the planes opened out.

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

To-morrow's Horoscope

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 29, 1928

Sinister stars rule this day, according to astrology which reads in the horoscope many adverse aspects.

Early in the morning the way is more kindly than later. The influences encourage constructive thinking and should be favorable to planning for the day.

This should be lucky for using or acquiring machinery, for all labor-saving devices are well directed.

Accidents of various sorts may be numerous under this rule of the stars which presages a disaster on the water.

Under this direction of the stars both men and women may show nervous tension that may easily produce quarrels and misunderstandings.

THERE is nothing that has ever taken Aspirin's place as an antidote for pain. It is safe, or physicians wouldn't use it, and endorse its use by others. Sure, or several million users would have turned to something else. But get the real Aspirin (at any drugstore) with Bayer on the box, and the word genuine printed in red.

OTTAWA AIDS FINANCE
CANADA'S BIG CROP MOVE

Ottawa, Aug. 29. — The Treasury Board today reduced the interest rate on advances under the Finance Act from 5 to 4½ per cent. Hon. James A. Robb, chairman of the Treasury Board and Minister of Finance, stated this action was being taken to assist in the economical handling of the season's grain crop. Under the provisions of the Finance Act, advances are made by the Department to the banks. At the time of movement it is necessary for the bank to issue a large quantity of consequently they require advances. The reduction in the rate is made for the purpose of assisting the crop movement.

London Declares Note to France Credited to Sir A.
Chamberlain Fraud

London, Aug. 28. — "We have now seen a copy of the letter which purports to have been written by Sir Austen Chamberlain, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, to M. Briand, the French Foreign Minister, concerning the alleged terms of an Anglo-French naval agreement, and we have no hesitation in declaring the letter must obviously be a forgery. No communication, even remotely in such a sense as suggested, has ever passed from Sir Austen to M. Briand."

This statement was issued yesterday by the Foreign Office to the Canadian Press.

The document, a summary of which was published widely in the United States and Canada and occasioned a great sensation, has now been received in London, and is stated to be a most patent and palpable forgery. It is understood the British Government has cabled instructions to the British Embassy at Washington to deny categorically the authenticity of the document.

Ol' Coincidence
Is a Devilish Fellow!

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Fanny Brice, pet of Broadway, has her nose done over by plastic surgery. Nicky Arnstein, her husband, took a look; decided she was too beautiful for him, according to Miss Brice, and sought consolation away from home. Now perhaps Mr. Arnstein was watching for a straw to trip over—such as a nose. Or perhaps it was Fanny's nose that he really loved before it was changed. Or perhaps the nose had nothing to do with his truancy at all, but was merely a coincidence.

I am inclined to think the latter may have been the case. For Old Man Coincidence is a devilish fellow, and the longer I live the more I am convinced that no person should be hung on circumstantial evidence, which is indeed merely a court name for him. One time I bought a dress. A nice dress. A green dress. I bought it in a faraway city and paid a price. Two months later I bought another dress. Not such a nice dress but a green dress—of the same shade. It was a reduced mere flimsy nothing of a dress. Why I bought it I know not. Three ladies were in the department when I bought the dress. I knew the ladies. They saw me with five green dresses over my arm disappear into a trying-room. When I emerged I was saying, "I'll take this one," and opened my purse.

The next day I met said three ladies at a party. I had on the nice green dress—the first one. The one I had brought from a distance, the one that had cost a price.

One of the ladies had on a duplicate—in another shade. "See you got one of M's bargain dresses too, yesterday," "No," said I. "I got this in March. I didn't know M's had it." And comparing prices as ladies do, I had paid twice what she had, it seemed. I forgot about the five green dresses over my arm, and the audience near the dressing room in M's store. That night I woke with a start. The whole thing jumped at me out of the dark. I shall probably never see the lady with the dress like mine. But somewhere between me and San Francisco is a woman who thinks me the biggest liar on earth.

Scenario Writer
Dies in Hollywood

Los Angeles, Aug. 28.—A. L. O'Donohue, thirty, a leading Hollywood scenario writer, was found dead in the bathtub of his home late yesterday. A physician summoned by Louis Winers, screen actress wife of O'Donohue, reported death apparently was due to a heart attack.

A ship similar to a barque except that the foremast is square-rigged and the two after-masts are fore-and-aft rigged, is called a barquentine.

Byrd-Men and Their Antarctic Ship

THE SKIPPER OF THE SAMSON, Byrd's Antarctic ship, here is shown accepting the commission of Lieutenant-Commander in the Naval Reserve of the U.S. Merchant Marine. The ceremony is being performed on the deck of the Samson, a vessel similar to ones on which he, Captain Fred C. Melville, has spent thirty-one years sailing for the North Atlantic. Left to right are Tom Mulroy, chief engineer; Harold I. June, chief aviation pilot for the expedition; Captain Melville; Lieutenant James S. Trayer, U.S.N., representing the Commandant of the Third Naval District; L. W. Konta, seaman and helmsman.

THE DECK OF THE SAMSON, Commander Richard E. Byrd's base ship for the Antarctic expedition, here is shown after the craft was taken out of drydock at New York, where it had undergone a complete overhauling. Still a mass of temporary rigging, the sail-and-power boat is being given the last touches by workmen before the party sails for South Polar sea and the two-year period of exploration there. The Samson cost $400,000.

AT THE THEATRES

"GLORIOUS BETSY"
NOW SHOWING AT
DOMINION HERE

In "Glorious Betsy," which opened last night at the Dominion Theatre, Warner Bros. have a picture that is as colorful and interesting a production as we have seen in many months.

Dolores Costello, who stars in this feature, is more beautiful than ever in the gorgeous costumes of the early nineteenth century, and as a dramatic actress she shows remarkable talent. The story, generally well acted and ably directed, is the love affair between Jerome Bonaparte and Betsy Patterson of Baltimore which terminates in their marriage in spite of the opposition of Napoleon who was planning a marriage of another sort for his brother.

"Glorious Betsy" is splendidly directed by Alan Crosland.

VIRGINIA VALLI
STARRING NOW AT LOCAL PLAYHOUSE

"Ladies Must Dress," A Fox Film production, featuring Virginia Valli and Lawrence Gray, is now showing at the Playhouse. It is a smart comedy-drama, based upon modern life and centering about the love affair of a quiet little working girl who disappears her sweetheart because of the severity of her dress. Victor Heermans wrote the story and has directed it with broad understanding. The cast includes Earle Foxe, Nancy Carroll and Hallam Cooley.

AMUSING COMEDY
FEATURE FILM
NOW AT VARIETY

Ford Sterling, whose work in the screen version of "The Show-Off," aided in putting him permanently in the ranks of featured players, met the man who created the role in the original stage play when he came East to make Robert Kane's "For the Love of Mike," now on view at the Variety Theatre.

"For the Love of Mike" was put into production as "Dance Magic," another Kane film, was being finished. One of the principal players in this latter piece was Louis John Bartels, who played the leading character in the stage version of "The Show-Off."

The two had an interesting afternoon together comparing notes on the dual presentations of George Kelly's famous play.

HOBART BOSWORTH PLAYING LEADING ROLE AT COLUMBIA

George Kuwa, character actor in "After the Storm," a Columbia production starring Hobart Bosworth at the Columbia Theatre, is the son of a judge in the Japanese courts. The child was christened Keiichi Kuwahara, a name suitable for a legal light in Hiroshima.

Young Keiichi was not destined to grace the bar, much to his father's disappointment the lad gravitated to the stage. On reaching America the actor shortened his name to George Kuwa and won an enviable reputation in the Japanese colony of Hollywood acting and directing in fantastic Oriental dramas. Kuwa made one business venture in America and lost so heavily that he was forced to return to the stage to recoup his fortune. This time, however, the actor made his debut on the American stage at the Morosco Theatre in Los Angeles.

Among his successful picture roles are those in "The Warning," "The Night Bride," "The Chinese Parrot," "Melting Millions," "White Fawn," "The Showdown" and "Chinese Charlie."

BEBE DANIELS AT CAPITOL IN "HOT NEWS" THIS WEEK

Bebe Daniels' admirers will feel that she has made the most spectacular picture of her career when they see "Hot News," which, opened yesterday at the Capitol Theatre. Abounding in adventure, suspense, thrills, humor and romance, it will appeal to people in all walks of life as one of the most entertaining films this popular star has ever made.

It tells an authentic story of one of the most adventurous professions in the world. . . . That of the news reel cameraman. Miss Daniels is her usual vivacious self in this picture and, in addition to her talents as a comedienne, her prowess as an athlete is nothing short of amazing.

On the stage at the Capitol this week the management are offering the Lavelle Sisters, in a novelty act of dancing and playing. Evelyn Rose, the champion heel and toe dancer, and Snyder and Mahan, two men who certainly know how to sing and play.

FAMOUS TRIAL
PLAY AT ROYAL
TWO NIGHTS SOON

The tremendous success of "The Trial of Mary Dugan" has preceded its appearance at the Royal Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday nights, September 4 and 5, and this thrilling Bayard Veiller court-room melodrama is, therefore, assured a hearty welcome. With a year's run on Broadway behind it, and with the unparalleled record of simultaneous productions in London, Berlin, Paris and other European centres as proof of its universal appeal, it is a foregone conclusion that the local anagement will be a profitable one for its producer, A. H. Woods. "The Trial of Mary Dugan" is full of novel effects, the most startling of which is the absence of a curtain, the use of which is entirely eliminated before and during the play, and as the sleeves of a trick performer are rolled back to show there is nothing concealed, so is the stage setting exposed as the audience takes its seat.

SUPERVISOR OF MUSIC RESIGNS

School Board Accepts Resignation of Frederick Waddington

Frederick Waddington has resigned as music supervisor to the Victoria schools. The City School Board last night accepted the resignation with regret, and deferred appointment of a successor. Mr. Waddington was also director of the High School choir. The board awarded the W. L. Morgan Fuel Company a contract to supply coal to the city schools. The accepted tender quoted $9.25 per ton, delivered as required. John Gough, B.A. of the University of British Columbia, was appointed by the board as a member of the teaching staff of the Victoria High School.

Harvest Conditions Around Regina Good

Regina, Aug. 28.—Though light frosts come almost every night, harvest conditions are almost ideal in the Regina district and possibly more than half of the wheat crop has been cut. The weather has remained fair and cool and the work of cutting the heavy crop is in full swing. As in other districts, no estimate of frost damage can be made until after threshing. With the exception of the frost that came early in the morning of last Thursday, the frequent frosts have been very light. The labor situation is favorable to speeding the harvest.

For Freckled, Tanned
Sun-Spoiled Skin

To reveal the exquisite loveliness hidden beneath a freckled or tanned complexion, use pure mercolized wax. Applied nightly to the face like a cold cream, the wax gradually peels off all particles of scorched and half-dead cuticle. The under skin then reveals, is clear, smooth, white and youthful. Preserve an ounce at any drug store and keep your skin young. Mercolized wax brings out the hidden beauty. To quickly remove wrinkles and restore facial contour use as an adjunct 1 ounce powdered saxolite and 1 half pint witch hazel. (Adv.)

AT THE COLISEUM

Famous British Production
Retained For Another Week

The most discussed picture of recent years, "Dawn," which proved such an attraction at the Coliseum Theatre last week, has been retained for another week in response to many demands. Last night's house indicated that the theatre will be crowded again every night this week.

As a striking war lesson the picture is remarkable and different to any other war picture yet shown. The gripping story of Nurse Cavell is told simply and without unnecessary colorful action that might make a wonderful fiction story yet spoil the presentation as nearly as it can possibly be done of a memorable incident of the war. The acting of all who participate in the great British production is marked by simplicity and sincerity. It is so natural that one almost imagines the real tragedy and incidents leading up to it are actually being enacted. The Coliseum picture will live long in the memories of all who see it.
